U. S. WILL REFUSE TO DEAL WITH LAVAL;
POPPET WARNED AGAINST ARMED ACTIONJap Transports
Seen Massed
Near Rangoon

CHUNGKING, China, April 16. (P)—The Japanese were pouring fresh divisions which may total upward of 80,000 men into the Burma campaign tonight and expanding ammunition on a vast scale in a massive attempt to complete the conquest of the Kipling country and shut China off from the United Nations before the May monsoon gives the nearly exhausted defenders relief.

In the last four days RAF reconnaissance planes have spotted 40 Japanese troopships off Rangoon, all presumably carrying reinforcements for the Burma battle, and there were some reports that these involved 5 1/2 divisions. (Earlier estimates have placed the strength of the Japanese force already in Burma at three divisions; thus if the 5 1/2 division estimate is correct the total force involved could approach 150,000.)

Already in the middle of Sittang river sector of the battlefield, one of the two held by parts of the Chinese 5th and 6th armies under U. S. General Joseph W. Stilwell, the Japanese were throwing between 2,000 and 3,000 shells a day into the main Chinese positions, now established north of Thagaya, a Japanese-occupied town some 30 miles north of Toungoo.

Two Distinct Threats. Although official spokesmen said the Chinese lines above Thagaya now were stabilized, largely due to the valor of a Chinese battalion commander who, although wounded, fought a successful delaying action against two enemy divisions, there were two distinct threats to the Chinese position on the Sittang.

One was to the Chinese right flank and was caused by the British withdrawals, under extreme pressure, in the Irrawaddy valley to the west. The other—on the left—was caused by the movement of two Japanese columns toward Loikaw, capital of the Karen tribal area and southern gate to the Shan states.

Loikaw is some 80 miles north-east of Toungoo. One column was moving up the Salween river from the southeast, the other had reached Yado, about halfway between Toungoo and Loikaw.

Assault Shifted. The Japanese started a fresh drive northward on the Sittang two days ago after reaching reinforced positions east and west of Thagaya, the Chinese high command said tonight, but the Chinese troops resisted heroically, inflicting many casualties in hand-to-hand fighting. Then the Japanese shifted the direction of their assault.

On the east the Japanese troops who captured Yado were being constantly reinforced but the Chinese line was holding at last reports.

On the Irrawaddy, the British again were fiercely engaged, but official New Delhi reports said a valiant covering action by stout-hearted "Koyles" although the Yorkshire light infantrymen had enabled the main forces to establish positions near Yenchuan, north of Minhla, less than 30 miles from the oil field center of Yanangyang.

For days, the "Koyles"—always in the thick of the Burma battles—fought magnificently to cover the latest retreat up the Irrawaddy.

GIRLS IN CHEMICAL WARFARE—The first batch of girl day students ever to invade the Georgia Tech campus has been sent there by the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States government. They're learning war jobs and they're working hard. In the picture, left to right, are Julia Mae Taylor, of Greenville, S. C.; Jane Barr, of San Francisco, an instructor; Madeline Blackwelder, of Griffin, and Anna Lou Black, of Bowman, S. C. They're working at one of the benches in the machine shops at Tech, studying precision gauges.

Way Cleared
For Athens'
Navy School

All legal decks were cleared yesterday for the opening in late May of the United States Navy's new preflight school for naval aviation students at Athens.

At Governor Talmadge's home in McRae, Ga., the Governor, Chancellor S. V. Sanford and President Harmon W. Caldwell, signed the final contract between the United States Navy and the state of Georgia.

More than 300 officers and instructors are on the job in Athens today preparing the school for its opening and within a few months 1,875 young men between the ages of 19 and 26 who have had two years of college work will be undergoing the toughening processes and ground work training this school will feature.

Each student will be given three months' training at Athens, mixing mathematics and ground work with hard work on football and baseball fields. Each student will be required to undergo severe physical training.

After the three months' training at Athens the men will be sent to fields such as the Naval Reserve Aviation base on the Buford highway for their preliminary flight schooling. From these schools they move on after 90 days to the advanced schools in various coastal cities.

It's Really War, Boys!
Girls Enroll at Tech

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Thirty young women who marched onto the campus of Georgia Tech two weeks ago, under the chaperonage of the United States Chemical Warfare Service, have found that a co-ed division of such unusual proportions meets with two types of spontaneous reception:

First, the members of the faculty peer over the rims of their double-lensed glasses with the stricken awe of a hen which has just discovered a doorknob in her nest.

Second, the delighted members of the student body leap into the air tossing hats and twirling their feet like Russian dancers, giving vent to the while to robust catcalls and whistles.

The faculty members, after the first shock, thought hard for a moment, recalled there is a war going on and relapsed pleasantly into their fog of philosophical acceptance that almost anything can be expected anywhere at any time of a war, day or night.

The students, watching the 30 co-eds drift by to their classes, felt the inspired happiness of a DeSoto catching his first view of the Mississippi. Then they used all their time-worn tricks, but failed because—

The 30 young women who caused all this upset among the helluva young engineers were just the type to handle this situation. Not one of them is younger than 21 years, all of them out of college and in the Army now, achieving that critical turning point in life where a college boy is dismissed as just a "cute kid," not worth a second look, and then to find out which of the girls have none.

The girls are in the mechanical engineering building with another week to go in a special course the Chemical Warfare Service is giving them. After that, they'll move to Baltimore and then to Cincinnati, where they'll undergo courses lasting another three weeks. After that they move on to another course somewhere and when they have finished in the next two or three months they will be qualified supervisor-inspectors in the Chemical Warfare Service.

The girls are all college students who have had at least mathematics and chemistry or another science with laboratory credits. They were supplied to the Chemical Warfare Service by the Civil Service after a thoroughgoing investigation of their background and qualifications, the latter of which included some evidence of participation in activities requiring leadership.

In their classes at Tech, where they start at 10 o'clock every morning and work until 7:30 o'clock every night, five days a week, they are studying the tensile strength of various types of steel; measuring with every type of gauge; they're learning all about machine parts and how to measure and to test them; and when they finish the course they'll know how to test the many types of weapons and munitions listed as the problems of the Chemical Warfare Service.

SUGAR SUPPLIES
Said Sufficient.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(P)—Sugar supplies in the east, where stocks were so low a month ago, are reported today to be sufficient to meet the half-pound per person ration set today.

Japanese Land
Force on Panay
In Philippines

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(P)—The Japanese, driving to extend their control over the Philippines, landed in force today on the island of Panay.

Protected by gunfire from warships and supported by aircraft, an invasion force of about 8,000 men poured ashore from eight transports near Iloilo and Capiz, the War Department announced in a late day communique.

Panay, fourth island of the archipelago with an area of 4,448 square miles, also is one of the richest. Its capital, Iloilo, had a population before the war of more than 88,000, making it the fifth city of the Philippines, and one of the seven ports of entry for the commonwealth.

With the assault on Panay the Japanese now have landed troops on seven of the major islands, Luzon, on which Manila is located and where the Battle of Bataan was fought, was the first objective of the invasion.

Others on which the enemy have established themselves are Mindoro and Masbate, immediately south of Luzon, Cebu, like Panay one of the central group of islands, and Mindanao and Jolo in the south.

The size of the defending force on Panay, composed of units of the Philippine army, was not disclosed but Lieutenant General Jonathan Wainwright reported that it was "in contact with the enemy." Details of the fighting were not available, he said.

Wainwright added that units of his command were keeping up their aggressive action on Mindanao, and had inflicted substantial losses on the Japanese near Digos, Moncayo, and Zamboanga.

The department's communique said that anti-aircraft fire from Corregidor had hit an enemy bomber participating in continuing aerial bombardment of that fortress, and that the plane was rapidly losing altitude when last observed.

New Vichy Regime
Expected To Try To Retake Colonies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The United States will not attempt to maintain normal diplomatic relations with a Vichy government dominated by Pierre Laval, an authoritative source disclosed tonight.

Whether this means merely the recall of Ambassador William D. Leahy or a complete rupture of diplomatic relations was not revealed. It was emphasized, however, that this government could not regard any cabinet headed by Laval as anything but a regime pledged to collaborate fully toward a German victory.

There has been no official announcement of United States policy toward the new Vichy government and there is not likely to be until tomorrow. It was considered possible in well informed quarters that the German precedent might be followed—that is Ambassador Leahy could be recalled and a charge d'affaires left in Vichy until the government there chose to break off all diplomatic contact with this country.

U. S. Ready To Act. It will be recalled that the United States embassy in Berlin was not closed until Germany declared war on the United States.

French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye, who called on Acting Secretary of State Welles to communicate his government's rejection of an American note described in Vichy Tuesday as insulting in tone, denied that he had received instructions to return to Vichy. He said he still hoped normal relations would be maintained, but admitted he could not forecast "the American reaction."

Meanwhile highly authoritative sources indicated the United States is prepared to act quickly in defense of its own interests if Laval embarks on any adventure menacing the security of this country.

May Use Fleet. There is reason to believe, according to these sources, that Laval plans to put the French fleet into action, not openly as part of the German war machine but as an independent force fighting to recapture French territories now in the hands of the Free French.

That is, he may try to take Syria, which was occupied by Free French and British forces last year in the face of considerable resistance. Or he may send warships and troop transports to the African west coast in an attempt to wrest control of French Equatorial Africa from the followers of General Charles DeGaulle, who control that area now.

Nothing has been divulged as to preparations the United States has made to forestall possible involvement of French Western Hemisphere possessions (Martinique, Guadeloupe, French Guiana) in such ambitious moves by Laval. However, it was authoritatively emphasized here today that if at any time action becomes necessary to guard the interests of the United States that action will be taken, and quickly.

Henry-Haye told reporters he still hoped that diplomatic relations could be maintained. Asked if there was any particular reason why his communication for transmission to the United States government today was in verbal form rather than in the form of a note, the ambassador retorted:

"We don't seem to be very lucky when we write."

He declined to comment on the probable policy of the new Vichy government. He said that was something which must be announced by the government itself. The ambassador remained with Welles for more than an hour.

Afterward he told newsmen that he had communicated verbally to the acting secretary the instructions of his government, which were that "this note could not be received by the French government because part of that note was not acceptable by my government."

He said he had also discussed with Welles the general situation in France, and had reminded him of the fact that the French government had been in existence since 1940.

"Sunday morning we sent two bombers toward Manila. One sank a transport near Batangas and came home. The other flew over Corregidor and then bombed Nichols Field."

"The third (B-17) had to have an engine changed and was spotted on the ground by a Japanese reconnaissance plane that the soldiers call 'Photo Joe.'"

"Soon dive-bombers appeared, single-float Navy jobs which buzzed around at 2,500 feet and started to pick at the bomber. It was most insulting."

"The other heavy bombers had returned and were refueling when the Japs hit the grounded bomber, blew her up, and damaged the other two."

"The other bombers also were seeing action."

Greatest Mass
Attack of War
Made by RAF

LONDON, April 16.—(P)—RAF planes by the hundreds swarmed across the Channel today to blast at Nazi-occupied France and carry on the British non-stop offensive what appeared to be the greatest mass daylight sweep by either Britain or Germany in this war.

The air ministry disclosed that more than 400 fighters alone took part in the day's onslaught. In addition, bomb-carrying Hurricanes took part in two attacks, and in others clouds of fighters escorted American-made Boston (Douglas) bombers.

Five Axis fighters were shot down; two British planes failed to return from the daylight forays, aimed at such targets as the power station and docks at the great port of Le Havre, the railway sidings and blackened piers of Dunkerque. In the Channel a 200-ton German motor torpedo boat was raked by cannon and machinegun fire by a British pilot who dived into his plane almost touched the waves.

The Bostons scored four direct hits on Le Havre power station, the air ministry said, and their bombs also hit dock gates, barges and a warehouse in operations described officially as "superb."

Spitfire fighters made a final sweep over the Channel just before dark and probably destroyed

Grim Silence Greets
Vichy's Collaborator

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERN, Switzerland, April 16.—To an undertone accompaniment of reported incendiarism and sabotage, of mass arrests and executions, Pierre Laval became tonight the new chief of the government at Vichy, achieving actual rule of that beaten land under Chief of State Petain.

This became known for certain even before the formal communique was issued on the results of today's Laval-Petain conferences.

It was understood also that Laval would assume the ministry of interior which directs the French police.

All but the formality of full power over the destiny of what Vichy had kept of France seemed to have been placed in the hands of this old-line politician whose affection for the Axis predated the appeasement at Munich and came to full flower after the French surrender to Germany at Compiègne.

Darlan Participates. The communique issued tonight—a few condensed lines—said merely:

"Marshal Petain received M. Laval this morning. In the afternoon the marshal conferred again with Admiral of the Fleet Darlan and M. Laval. They exchanged views on the political situation. Before constitution of the new government the council of ministers will meet for the last time tomorrow."

(M. Laval is the courtesy title for all ex-premiers.) Ever since the fall of France Laval has been known as the foremost collaborator with Germany. It was his Axis bent which brought his ouster from the early Petain government in which he had been vice premier and Petain's designated political heir.

Radio Addresses Expected. Laval and Petain were reported by the German radio to be preparing radio addresses to the French nation to follow formal announcement that the new cabinet had been drafted.

In contrast to the veiled proceedings at Vichy were the reports from Paris of anticollaborationists again on the march, of mass arrests of demonstrators in the past few days, of the execution of 25 more prisoners of the Germans there and, topping all such advices, a report of a train wreck near Caen in Normandy in which 100 persons were killed.

Vast Fleets of Planes To Follow
Raid on Philippines, Curtin Says

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 16.—(P)—Proving that the Philippines are not yet lost, it was disclosed today that the American bombers which spread destruction and dismay among the Japanese early this week used a secret, fighter-guarded base deep in those islands and provisioned in expectation of returning again and again.

Ten B-25's and three B-17's made the raid. One B-17 was destroyed on the ground by the Japanese, but its crew of 10 was brought back in the other planes along with 34 soldiers and civilians who had made their way out of such places as Corregidor and Bataan.

The unfolding story of the 4,000-mile American exploit showed clearly that it was only an opening, though highly effective, step in General Douglas MacArthur's promised campaign to drive the Japanese out of the Philippines.

Australian Prime Minister John Curtin hailed the exploit of Brigadier General Ralph Royce and his men as indication that the war tide was turning against the Japanese, saying it was only the first drive into the heart of Japanese positions and would in time be followed by vast fleets of planes.

General Royce, who volunteered to lead the expedition, gave these details of the bold, significant exploit:

"It was a field day for two days, something in the nature of a picnic."

"We left our Australian squadron base at 1 a. m. Saturday, refueled farther on, and took off under cover of American fighters at 10:30 and flew straight into the Philippines."

"We got into our base in the Philippines at dark Saturday and prepared for our mission."

"Sunday morning we sent two bombers toward Manila. One sank a transport near Batangas and came home. The other flew over Corregidor and then bombed Nichols Field."

"The third (B-17) had to have an engine changed and was spotted on the ground by a Japanese reconnaissance plane that the soldiers call 'Photo Joe.'"

"Soon dive-bombers appeared, single-float Navy jobs which buzzed around at 2,500 feet and started to pick at the bomber. It was most insulting."

"The other heavy bombers had returned and were refueling when the Japs hit the grounded bomber, blew her up, and damaged the other two."

"The other bombers also were seeing action."

Sugar Sales Are To Be Limited
At First To Half Pound a Week

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(P)—Sugar sales will be limited to a half pound a week per person, during the first two months of government rationing, the OPA disclosed today.

Decisions as to future allowances will depend largely upon the supply picture, officials indicated, leaving the entire program flexible and subject to prompt alteration by the Office of Price Administration.

When plans to ration sugar were announced originally, OPA said the weekly allowance probably would be 12 ounces. Since then, increasing shortages of supplies forced a reduction to eight.

Each of the first four stamps in the 28-stamp ration book to be issued each citizen will be good for a two-week period and each will permit purchase of one pound of sugar. After these four stamps have been used, OPA may or may not alter the size of the weekly ration and the period of time covered by each stamp, it was explained.

Making public official instructions for registration of citizens and operation of the nation's first food rationing system, OPA declared that persons possessing more than two pounds of sugar at the time of registration would be penalized as hoarders, while persons possessing more than six pounds would be permitted to register but would be denied ration books until their "hoard" is exhausted.

Individuals possessing more than two pounds, but not exceeding six, will have one stamp for each pound from their ration books at the time of registration. Since these restrictions apply to individuals, a family of four, for example, could possess eight pounds without penalty.

No retail sales of sugar will be permitted during the week beginning April 27, preliminary to the consumer registration between May 4 and May 7.

Officials said actual rationing would begin some time during the registration period but that the exact date had not been set. Wholesale deliveries to retailers, or deliveries from refineries to industrial users will not be affected by the rationing "freeze" at the retail level.

Cautioning citizens to be careful of their ration books OPA commented that "it may, at a later time, be necessary to use them for other commodities if they are rationed." The "other commodities" were not designated, but it was recalled that supplies of tea, coffee, for example, have been seriously threatened by the shipping situation.

Georgia WPA Teaching Pilots Language of 'Good Neighbors'

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 16.—(AP) Army pilots in Georgia are learning Spanish under WPA tutelage. State Administrator Harry Harman Jr., outlining the scope of Works Projects Administration activities before the Georgia Conference on Social Welfare, today reported among other things that "at present the WPA service division is teaching Spanish to 359

U. S. Army Air Corps pilots, one of the many contributions of the program to the war effort of our country."

Classes are conducted at Savannah, Macon, Albany and Atlanta. Classes were at one time held at Columbus, but the WPA reported they had been taken over by volunteers.

B. S. Miller, director of the State Welfare Department, told the conference he believed the federal social security act should be amended so that benefits for the aged and blind and for dependent children would be paid directly to the states.

"I think the grants ought to be made by congress directly to the states and not handled by the Social Security Board, or any other bureau in Washington," he said.

"Let the state make its own investigation in its own way, with or without a civil service or merit system and then certify its eligibles to Washington for payment."

Committees to choose a time and place for the next annual meeting and to return officer nominations to the conference were selected during the morning session.

Genie Clare Barnes, director of the Chatham County Department of Public Welfare, was named chairman of the time and place committee, and Mrs. Frank W. Spencer, of Savannah, was selected chairman of the nominations committee.

Other time and place committeemen were: Mrs. Martha Rogers, of the Travel Aid Society at Atlanta; Florence Davis Appleton, of the Church Home at Macon; Mrs. Lomita Colcord, of the Department of Public Welfare, Atlanta; T. E. Sikes, of Bethany Home, Vidalia; Mary Newell, of Atlanta; Mildred Ridgely, of the Y. W. C. A. at Augusta.

Those named to the nominations committee were: Mrs. Clara Nolen, of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association; Mrs. Charlotte Rhorer, of the Family Welfare Society at Atlanta; Virginia Monelle, of the Department of Public Welfare, Albany; Nara E. English, Department of Public Welfare, Macon; Charles W. Colwell, Towns County Department of Public Welfare; Mrs. Mary Athearn, of the Travelers' Aid Society at Atlanta; E. Page Tucker, of the Works Projects Administration at Macon; and Mrs. M. E. Tilly, representing the Federal Church Women.

SINGING SESSION.

General Denig Passes Off His Exploits Lightly

Modest Marine Officer Prosaic in Describing Deeds.

By AL SHARP.

A Marine who calmly read a map in the heavy crossfire of enemy machineguns and got a wound in his arm came to Atlanta yesterday to inspect the public relations offices of the corps.

He is Brigadier General Robert L. Denig, whose modesty about his own career is in direct contrast to his position as national head of Marine Corps publicity.

General Denig, who has served at Pearl Harbor where he was in command of the Marine barracks, has so many medals he can't keep up with them.

Description Prosaic.

Yet his description of the deeds which won them are so prosaic that a reporter must have an imagination. For instance, take that day he was wounded.

"We were just spread out and walking along toward a machinegun nest," he said. "There were several machineguns around, I remember. Then I got a kick in the arm—it was just like the kick one of these Georgia mules can give you."

"I was hospitalized and sent back of the lines. It happened at Mont Blanc, I believe. There was nothing to it. I was a major then and just walking along reading a map to find out whether my men were in the right place."

"Maybe I shouldn't have been reading that map, at that."

Quake in Nicaragua.

Then there was the time when he was chief of staff during the trouble in Nicaragua.

"I was sitting at my desk on an open porch when the building began to rock. It felt as if a bull-cart had run into the side of the building. Then I realized it was an earthquake. I jumped off the porch to get out in the open. A few moments later I turned around to see what was happening to the building. The earth went one way and I went the other. It broke my leg."

Among the medals he wears are the Croix de Guerre with Palm and Star, which amounts to two of them; Legion of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross, Order of Purple Heart and Navy Cross.

Receiving Satisfactory.
Each of his dozen medals must represent a story—maybe several stories—but General Denig, who has served in just about every place the Marines ever landed, chooses not to talk.

He did say that his coast-to-coast tour of inspection "proved recruiting is more than satisfactory and the men are all eager to go places." General Denig took his present post last year.

He has two sons—Captain Robert L. Denig Jr. and Lieutenant James Denig, both with the Marines somewhere west of San Francisco.

Oh, well, it would be nice to hear all those stories he has about his career with the Marines since 1905, but they will have to wait. Anyway, Mrs. Denig wanted to get some rest.

"I'm beginning to feel like a trapper after all those overnight trips from the States," she laughed while showing the newspaper folks out of the room at the Baltimore hotel.

Research Grants Given Georgians

Grants to Georgia research men amounting to $3,502, including $400 for Professor W. H. Duncan, of the University of Georgia, for a study of rubber-producing plants, were announced yesterday by the University Center. Other grants were:

To Dr. Philip Davidson, of Agnes Scott, $500 for research in the history of southern colleges; to Professor H. F. Henry, University of Georgia, $482 for research in physics; to Professor J. B. Gittler, University of Georgia, $350 for research in sociology; to Professor A. C. Munyan, of Emory, $300 for geological studies; to Professor J. H. Venable, of Emory, $300 for studies in anatomy; to Professor Clavin S. Brown Jr., University of Georgia, $285 for research in music and literature, and to Professor W. T. Sumnerford, University of Georgia, $200 for research in pharmacy.

G. E. Official Tells U. S. To Take Patents

Denies Accord With Krupp Impeded War Production Effort.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) An executive of the General Electric Company suggested today that the government take over all patents vital to winning the war, but vigorously denied that a patent agreement between his company and the Krupp interests of Germany had impeded war production efforts in this country.

On the contrary, Dr. Zay Jeffries testified his company, "through agreement with Krupp and through initiative and enterprise, built an important industry in the United States, which is one of its great facilities for national defense."

Jeffries appeared before the senate patents committee as chairman of the board of Carboly Company, Inc., General Electric subsidiary, which produced metal hardening materials under agreements entered into with Krupp in 1936.

Jeffries said that General Electric and Carboly severed relations with Krupp "right after Pearl Harbor."

At another point, Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, asked Jeffries if General Electric had "written off" most of a loan of $1,000,000 it had made to establish the subsidiary Carboly Company.

"I don't know," Jeffries replied.

Mrs. Sallie Bryant Dies; Funeral Held

Mrs. Sallie Florine Bryant, 46, wife of P. D. Bryant, of 900 Curran street, died Wednesday at her residence.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Olive Springs Baptist church. The Rev. John Darnell officiated. Interment was in Enon cemetery at Woodstock.

Surviving are her husband; her mother, Mrs. Anna Croft; four sisters, Mrs. W. F. Forrester, Mrs. C. T. Gibson, Mrs. B. M. Chester and Mrs. S. E. Buckner; and two brothers, L. V. and E. S. Croft.

Goodwill Auxiliary Plans Open House

The auxiliary of Goodwill Industries will sponsor an open house from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Goodwill plant, 388 Edgewood avenue.

For many years this plant has been giving aged and handicapped workers a chance to become self-supporting through repairing discarded clothing, shoes, furniture and household goods.

Members of the executive committee of the auxiliary, who will be in the receiving line, are Mrs. B. K. Laney, president; Mrs. Paul Martin, Mrs. Leo Sudderth, Mrs. C. P. Timmons, Mrs. H. K. Stanford, Mrs. T. B. Martin and Mrs. W. M. Banta.

Mrs. Thomas To Be Buried Beside Sister

Funeral Services Will Be Held at Spring Hill Today.

Constant companions in life, Mrs. Arthur H. Thomas, 85, of 1410 Peachtree street, and her sister, the late Mrs. William R. Kline Sr., will be companions in death. It was decided yesterday by relatives.

The body of Mrs. Thomas was found Tuesday afternoon lying across the grave of her sister in West View cemetery. Mrs. Thomas had gone to the cemetery to plant some flowers on her sister's grave and was fatally stricken while engaged in setting out the plants.

She was a frequent visitor to the cemetery, a coroner's jury was told yesterday, and spent many hours beautifying her sister's grave. The coroner's jury returned a verdict stating Mrs. Thomas died of natural causes.

The body of Mrs. Thomas will rest in a grave beside that of her sister, following funeral services at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill.

Capital and Labor Hear Dr. Truett's Sermon on Salvation as Meeting Nears End

Salvation Army Cadets Present Special Music at Worship Hour

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Pastor, Druid Hills Baptist Church.

Obviously thrilled by the presence of so many leaders of capital and labor in a united hour of worship and fellowship, Dr. George W. Truett stirred the great audience at the Municipal Auditorium Thursday night—Capital and Labor Night—in the introductory passages of his powerfully moving sermon, coming to the climax in the immortal lines, written by Lord Macaulay, in his "Lays of Ancient Rome":

"Then none was for a party;
Then all were for the state;
Then the great man helped the poor,
And the poor man loved the great."

Then lands were fairly portioned;
Then spoils were fairly sold—
The Romans were like brothers
In the brave days of old."

There was special music by the Salvation Army cadets. Dr. Ryland Knight, president of the Christian Council of Atlanta, led the prayer. Congregational singing, led by John D. Hoffman, with Dr. Charles A. Sheldon at the organ and Miss Helen Schaid at the piano, was a feature of the meeting, as it is every night at the auditorium.

Dr. Truett will preach again at 11 o'clock this morning at Druid Hills Baptist church and again at 8 o'clock tonight at the auditorium. Tonight is young people's night.

There will be no services tomorrow. Sunday will be the closing day of Dr. Truett's eight-day engagement in Atlanta. He will preach at the church Sunday morning 11 o'clock, the sermon to be broadcast over station WGST. He will preach Sunday afternoon at the auditorium—the sixtieth anniversary sermon of Dr. Edward Randolph Carter, pastor since 1882 of Atlanta's oldest Negro Baptist congregation. And at 8 o'clock Sunday night, which is everybody's night, he will preach for the last time in the present series of meetings.

Forgives and Heals. Thursday morning, Dr. Truett preached on "Co-operation in Bringing the Lost to Christ," basing his sermon on the dramatic scene in the long ago when four men united in bringing a paralytic on his sickbed to the place where Jesus was ministering to the people. Unable to gain entrance talk with them about Christ and their souls' salvation. Oh, how they need your most sympathetic help. Don't wait about it.

"I preached one morning in my own church, urging the people not to wait to go out now and speak to that lost man or woman. One of my men resolved that he would go that afternoon and talk with one of his friends about the supreme matter of his relationship with Christ. But company came and then more company, and before he knew it, night had come.

"He went to bed that night with the resolve that he would surely speak to that friend Monday. But the day was crowded and night came on. He resolved that night that no matter how crowded Tuesday should be he would slip out and go to see that man. But Tuesday came and was gone. Wednesday came and was gone. Thursday morning, he was in his library. I could see that he was in great distress. He held the morning paper in his hand, and as I questioned him about his distress, he said: 'Have you seen this?' And there was the account of the man's sudden passing. He was there in his home with his family the night before, and as he finished the evening meal and pushed back his chair, he fell to the floor and was gone. And the man said: 'I remember in your sermon you begged us not to wait. I resolved then that I would go and speak to that man, but I let other things crowd it out, and now he's gone.' As thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone."

"If the religion of Christ is worth anything at all, it is worth dying for. And if it is worth dying for, it is worth living for."

Cleaned His Soul. "We have the story of the four men who brought their friend to Jesus. They couldn't get into the house because of the large crowd. But they didn't let that stop them. They climbed to the housetop and let their friend down into the midst of the crowd and Jesus forgave him, cleansed his soul and healed his body."

"Let us note one thing in connection with this story. We see Jesus in prayer. He prefaced all his work with prayer. Before he goes into that house which is to be crowded with the Pharisees, the doctors of law, the critics, He gives Himself to a season of prayer. The locust that eats up our power is the locust of neglected prayer. Oh, how we are losing out by neglected prayer. There are no substitutes for prayer. The four men came bringing their friend to Jesus. There was no sort of sympathetic co-operation for that group of men. The record here tells us that the power of the Lord was present to heal the crowd. It does not say the power did heal. They didn't come for that. They didn't desire that. The Lord is present to heal if our attitude be right toward Him.

"I was preaching in one of our Texas cities. On the second Sunday, I was just ready to get up to give my testimony and a man came in at the rear door. The usher offered him a chair. He didn't want to sit down, but upon the gracious insistence of the usher, he did. His face was pallid with distress. As I gave my simple testimony, tears came down his cheeks as if his heart were broken, and as I gave the invitation for any who would answer the call of the Savior, he came down the aisle. He told us a marvelous story. He had not been to church for 25 years. The night before had been a night of carousing. He hinted at a story of great wickedness. He said he was passing the meeting house and heard the singing. It reminded him of his childhood and he thought he would look in just long enough to see what a congregation looked like. 'But it got me,' he said, 'and now I am saved.'"

"Four men brought their friend to Jesus. Some cases, many cases may be brought to Christ by the efforts of one person. But this case required united, co-operative, concerted effort. One man couldn't get him there.

"Every year I have the privilege of speaking at Ridgecrest the last week in the summer. Two years ago a group of men from Asheville brought an old man, 80 years old, to the service one morning. He had made and lost three fortunes. His family had died. He was a lonely old man. He didn't want to come but they insisted and he came. They told me about him the first morning. 'He's 80 years old,' they said. 'He is going down rapidly. And we have brought him here, hoping and praying for his salvation.' He was restless, perplexed and confused. He hurried them on back to Asheville, but they brought him again that night, and the next day and the next."

"Sunday morning, before I had finished drinking my coffee, in he came. 'I haven't had any sleep,' he said. 'If you can tell me how to be saved, tell me now before you go up there to preach.' I explained to him that one is saved not by a church, nor an ordinance, nor a ceremony, nor a form—nothing that man can do. Salvation is of the Lord. He came that morning, professing his faith in Christ, and he went on back to Asheville, where he went about telling his friends of his salvation. Then one day he quietly passed in the middle of a conversation with a group of his friends. What if those men hadn't brought him? What if he had passed him by? But they are scattered throughout this city—lost, and we have passed them by—we have let them go."

"I said one day at our own church, 'Let's do the unusual thing—go after these people who don't go to church at all. And Mother Williams, the wife of our senior deacon, came after the service and said, 'I believe I'll go and see Mrs. So and So—beautiful, wonderfully gifted woman, but a very worldly woman. Her mother was one of my best friends. Don't you think I owe her daughter something?' And so she went."

Story About West. "The woman was a lady in all the finest respects and greeted her most cordially. After they had talked for a little while, Mrs. Williams said, 'Why do you suppose I came to see you?' 'Why, I don't know, but I remember that you were a good friend of my mother's, and no matter why you have come, I am glad to see you.' And then Mrs. Williams said, 'I have come to ask you why you are not well.'"

"And as we started the service I looked about but didn't see him. As I gave the invitation a great big brawny man came forward to accept Christ. It was his man. 'He did the unusual thing. Are you willing to plow for a man that he may come and hear the Gospel message?' Are you willing to mind the little baby so that unsaved mother may come and learn of the Blessed Savior? 'Years ago I was in Toronto and ing to be the friend of Christ after He died for you and gave you every blessing of your life?' And the beautiful woman came over and laid her hand in the lap of the dear old woman and cried out: 'I suppose it's because nobody ever asked me that question before. I have never had any spiritual attention from anyone at all. That night she was at church and confessed Christ as Savior.'

"Oh, they are dying all about us from the lack of personal attention. Let us do the unusual thing. I don't think much of a meeting if it is all happening inside the walls of the church or the auditorium. But I think everything of a meeting when the people come and light their candles and then go out to testify and lead men to the light."

"Years and years ago I was preaching out in the western land. I was staying with a Presbyterian layman, in his little farmhouse. His wife had gone on. He had two lovely daughters. Neither of them were Christians. One night he slipped out of the room. He thought I was asleep. He came back in the early morning and I asked him where he had been. He said he had been out in the barn praying for Mary, the oldest daughter. 'And we're going to get her today,' he said, 'because I got the answer.' And Mary did come. The next night he slipped out again, this time to pray for Jennie, the other daughter. And Jennie came. The next morning he said: 'I may not be at the service this morning. All of us around here got our plowing done; our work all finished, so that we could come to the services, but Mr. So and So has had sickness and trouble and he hasn't been able to finish plowing. I'm going over to see him this morning and invite him to the service. He's not a Christian. I know that he's going to say that he can't come because he has got to plow. But I'm going to tell him that I can plow as good as he can. I'm going to stay there and plow for him while he comes to the service. If I'm not here you'll know my man is here.'"

Story of Salvation. "And as we started the service I looked about but didn't see him. As I gave the invitation a great big brawny man came forward to accept Christ. It was his man. 'He did the unusual thing. Are you willing to plow for a man that he may come and hear the Gospel message?' Are you willing to mind the little baby so that unsaved mother may come and learn of the Blessed Savior? 'Years ago I was in Toronto and they told me this great story of a friend said: 'I am very curious to know what this most important matter is.' And the man from Canada said: 'I have come to talk with you about your soul's salvation—the supreme matter in all this world.' And as they talked and knelt in prayer, the great New York business man gave his heart to Christ.

"Won't you go out and do the unusual? Won't you see that man or woman whom you ought to see? Won't you put first things first, asking Him for His counsel and help and power? Won't you do it now?"

Health Program Given At Kiwanis Meeting

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. SWAINSBORO, Ga., April 16.—Dr. Abe Davis, director of the health program for the East Central region, had charge of the program at the Swainsboro Kiwanis Club Tuesday night at the regular meeting at the Swainsboro Community house. He brought the entire personnel of his office and led a discussion of the work they are doing.

Those assisting in the program were John Black and R. A. Dean, engineers; Miss Madelyn Harris and Mrs. Mary L. Crosby, registered nurses, and Mrs. Louise Garrison, secretary.

The Rev. H. E. Gaddy, pastor of the First Baptist church in Louisville, Ga., who is conducting a revival at the Baptist church here, also spoke.

T. R. Spivey, mayor of Swainsboro, will have charge of the meeting next Tuesday. C. E. Reed, president of the club, presided.

Newcomers To Be Guests At Breakfast

C. of C. To Entertain 300 Tomorrow Morning.

Approximately 300 Atlanta business executives, Army officers and government officials, all newcomers to Atlanta, will be guests of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow morning at a welcome breakfast at the Athletic Club.

Invitations were sent out by the chamber's newcomers committee, headed by John O. Chiles, who announced H. Carl Wolf, president of the chamber, will deliver an address of welcome.

"We want to make all newcomers welcome to Atlanta," Chiles said yesterday. "We want it to be a personal and a friendly welcome, and we know of no better way than by staging a breakfast, for many are unable to attend a luncheon or a dinner."

The breakfast will begin promptly, Chiles said, and the program will be concluded within an hour.

UNITED STATES NAVY CALLING!—At least the part of it that is most important to pretty, dark-haired Marguerite Thomas was on the line with a call the other day that made her Mrs. Jack Nettles, wife of Uncle Sam's Ensign Jack Nettles. Marguerite, just back from her honeymoon, yesterday re-enacted the call which Jack put in from his battleship somewhere at sea, asking her to meet him at Norfolk with the ring!

'Congress Is Wonderful' Sighs Pretty Bride of Ensign Nettles

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

"Have you read the papers? Ensigns can get married!"

If Hitler was listening in to a telephone call from a battleship somewhere off the Atlantic coast to an Atlanta bank last week, he probably started looking for a way to decode it.

But it was simple enough for a group of laughing and crying stenographers in the Fulton National Bank to understand.

It meant: Marguerite could marry Jack!

Ensign Jack Nettles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miller Nettles, of 910 Ponce de Leon avenue, heard the news aboard his ship at sea and, miraculously enough, Uncle Sam permitted him to be the first to break it to the girl he left behind. 20-year-old Marguerite Thomas, "Get the ring and meet me tomorrow!" ordered the young husband-to-be and Marguerite, tearful, but too happy to protest about clothes or hairdo, promised to be there.

Jack and Marguerite had been in love since she was a 15-year-old Commercial High school girl and he was a student at Tech. They expected to marry, but not so soon.

But congress found a way to help. For the duration of the war at least, ensigns may marry without regard to length of service—and Jack and Marguerite did at South Hills, S. C., on April 8.

Jack's battleship put in to port for a week, Marguerite met him, and they were married by a justice of the peace "in a little white house with green blinds." And they had a brief honeymoon before Jack set sail again and Marguerite returned to her typewriter at the Fulton National Bank.

"I guess it's an unconventional way to begin married life," smiled the brown-eyed little bride, picking up a white-wrapped wedding gift and preparing to go home last night. "I haven't had a letter from yet and I haven't any idea where he is or when he'll get my letters but, or, I think congress is wonderful!"

And she doesn't mean congress, of course.

Trial of Greer On Anti-Trust Charge Opens

Witness Tells of Commissions Paid Dr. Evans.

Dr. Hiram W. Evans, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, collected $39,116.34 from the Emulsified Asphalt Refining Company in commissions for the sale of emulsified asphalt to the state over a period of nine months, Alex MacDougall, president of the company, testified in federal court yesterday.

MacDougall was the government's first witness as the trial of John W. Greer Jr., indicted for conspiracy to violate the Sherman antitrust act, opened yesterday for what Judge E. Marvin Underwood predicted would be an eight-week run.

He was followed on the stand by Hugh T. Inman, treasurer of the company, one of three companies to plead nolo-contendere on the antitrust charges. Inman testified that his company bid on four types of asphalt emulsion but was able to manufacture only one. He said all bids submitted by his company had been dictated by Dr. Evans.

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp will attempt to prove that Greer conspired with the Emulsified Asphalt Refining Company, Dr. Evans, the American Bitumuls Company and the Shell Oil Corporation to monopolize a part of the trade in emulsified asphalt. Hal Lindsay, counsel for Greer, said in his opening argument he would prove that Greer acted at the direction of the highway board and that other concerns were given ample opportunity to bid on asphalt contracts.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Atlanta To Join In Victory Book Drive Today

Many Groups To Assist in Collection for Army Camps.

Atlantans today will join the rest of the nation in "drafting" good books for the libraries of men in the armed services of the country and overseas.

Former Senator G. Everett Millikan, head of the Victory Book Day committee in Atlanta, urged a liberal response to the campaign, telling Atlantans that bread and milk trucks, department stores, theaters, public utilities, buses, grocery stores, police and fire departments and almost any other responsible group will accept the books to be turned over to the librarian for service men.

The books will be sent to Army camps and posts, naval bases, USO clubs and merchant marine stations, and will be source of instruction and enjoyment to thousands of men.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eye, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WPB Refuses To Certify New Crude Oil Line

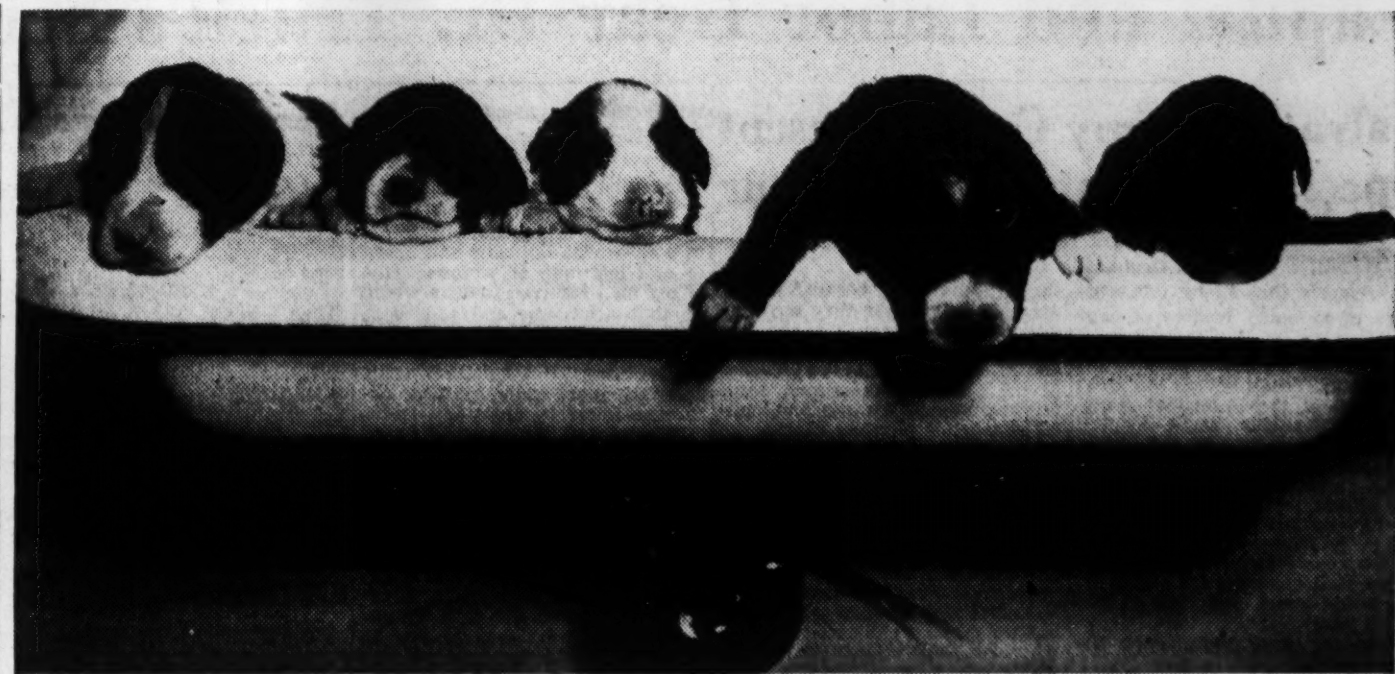

Texas to Savannah Conduit Held Not Vital to War.

Certification of a proposed crude oil pipeline from Texas to Savannah, Ga., as necessary to national defense was refused by Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, the regional office of the War Production Board announced yesterday.

Permission was sought by the Trans-American Pipe Line Corporation to construct a line from Wichita County, Texas, to Savannah, and Eastman was requested to recommend to the President that he issue a proclamation under the Cole act declaring the line "is or may be necessary for national defense purposes."

Eastman's refusal followed a report by a three-member board and a statement by the War Department that the line would be of little value to the war program because of its location.

The proposed line would be 1,050 miles long and cost about $25,000,000. It would also have an esti-

Senate Committee Ends Opposition To New Labor Law

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—With strong sentiment evidenced in congress for new labor legislation, the Senate Labor Committee abandoned its months-long opposition today and at its direction a subcommittee drafted legislation restricting extension of closed shop agreements and increases in wages and salaries.

House Votes To Let Women Join the Navy

Rule Against Privates Dating Army Nurses Brings Protest

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—A measure opening the Navy's ranks to women—first step toward enlistment of 150,000 "sailorettes" to relieve men for sea-going service—was passed today by the house.

Approval of the bill, which would clear the way for maids to become midwives and gals to become gobs, came in quiet contrast to the prolonged debate earlier this year over creation of a women's army auxiliary corps.

Far broader in scope than the use of yeomanettes in World War No. 1, the bill was drafted intentionally in terms so general that it would permit the Marine Corps to set up a feminine branch also.

The action, taken on voice vote in 10 minutes time, sent the legislation to the senate, where a bill to create a petticoat corps in the Army has been pending for nearly a month.

Grade for grade, women volunteering for service in the naval auxiliary would receive the same pay for duty ashore as that of men who swab the decks and man the guns of the nation's fighting ships.

Into the brief debate was injected a protest by Representative Hoffman, Republican, Michigan, against an Army regulation preventing privates from dating Army nurses.

He said that he had learned by letter from an American nurse new in Australia with the Army that she was not allowed to go on dates with privates, and then added:

"It seems wrong to me to deny a private the privilege—if the nurse is willing—of making a social engagement with a nurse."

Soldiers Applaud.

The protest brought him the applause of three grinning Army privates in the house gallery, but drew from Representative Maas, Republican, Minnesota, the observation that Hoffman was "not very well acquainted" with modern military practices. Maas said that nurses were commissioned officers, and that Army regulations prevented officers and privates from engaging in joint social activities.

Hoffman later took the floor to declare that privates in Australia get just as lonesome as officers and desire to mingle socially with the opposite sex. He suggested that it might be appropriate to send some telephone operators to Australia, provided that they were not given officer status.

In charge of the measure for the Naval Committee, Maas informed the house that the size of the naval auxiliary might reach 150,000 women as the Navy expanded to more than a million men.

He said that more than 1,000 women would be used for decoding work alone, releasing many men for sea duty. Other posts would range from confidential secretarial work to important assignments in the communications service.

Enlistment would be open only to women who have reached the age of 20.

Grocers Taught How To Fight 'Scoop' by Hidden Hunger Firefighters

"Hidden hunger" isn't a tough problem, but most Americans suffer from it whether they stuff themselves with luscious beef-steak or ham-on-ye sandwiches. And Atlanta grocers are going to do something about it.

Miss Eleanor Kellow, nutrition expert, explained the meaning of "hidden hunger" last night as her classes in nutrition—the first for grocers to be held in the south—were graduated.

"It's a part of the 'Food for Victory' campaign," Miss Kellow said. "Plenty of food is one problem which is being overcome, but eating the right foods to keep America healthy is another."

Hidden Hunger.

"If you do not have a balanced diet, you suffer from hidden hunger. You may feel as if you have had plenty to eat, but hidden hunger represents the balance in diet which you lack."

"So we are going to the source of the family dinner—the grocers. Housewives always have been interested in nutrition, but without the help of their grocers it was easy for them to stray from the stereotyped list of things to have."

"The grocers are taking the courses so that they can suggest tasty dinners with all the vitamins."

56 Certificates.

Eighty-four Atlanta grocers attended the opening series of classes at the Atlanta Opportunity School and 56 received certificates last night to show a record of their studies in practical nutrition. The Opportunity School is a part of the city school system. Mrs. Marie M. Jones, supervisor of the distributive education department, pointed out:

"We have had splendid cooperation from grocers," Mrs. Jones said. "We thought it would be a problem to get the men to attend classes, but that was not true. About 80 per cent of the students were men, and they agree that learning nutrition should be a help."

The classes are being sponsored by the National Grocers' Institute, of which the Atlanta Food Dealers' Association is a member.

So now, Mrs. Doe, when you run out of ideas for tasty, healthful meals, remember your grocer may have all the answers.

Colquitt Jury Urges Raise In Teacher Pay

Governor and Legislature Asked To Give 25 Per Cent Increase.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MOULTREE, Ga., April 16.—Expressing concern over the education of Georgia's youths which it said is "imperiled by failure of teachers to receive a parity salary," the April grand jury of Colquitt county superior court has gone on record with a recommendation asking the Governor and legislature for a "25 per cent increase in teachers' pay."

The recommendation followed a report made by Superintendent L. O. Rogers, of the county schools, which stated that "many men teachers are being called into the service and numbers of other teachers are going into war work with better remuneration. This is resulting in a serious shortage of trained teachers and the schools are destined to go backwards unless an increase in pay is offered the teachers."

Grocers Warn Henderson on Price Freezing

Fear Many Merchants Would Be Ruined by Action.

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP)—The National Association of Retail Grocers today reported to Leon Henderson, price administrator, that "many of the 400,000 food merchants will be ruined" if retail prices are frozen without consideration for current wholesale prices.

The following telegram, the association said, has been sent to Henderson:

"Reports persist that some plan for overall price control is under consideration which would compel retailers to absorb difference between current shelf prices and replacement costs."

"In a sincere effort to co-operate with government to control inflation grocers have almost universally refrained from markups to replacement price levels and if reported plan is put into effect hundreds of thousands of retailers in all lines face immediate bankruptcy."

MacArthur Cable Thanks Convention

A message from General MacArthur was received last night by delegates attending the sixth national convention of the American Communications Association (CIO), at the Ansley hotel.

The cablegram, in answer to a pledge of support sent Tuesday by the union, said: "I appreciate deeply your message and the inspiring patriotism which prompted it."

Floridian, Refused 80 Million Boom Holdings, Leaves $300

MIAMI, Fla., April 16.—(AP)—George E. Merrick, who was reported once to have refused $80,000,000 for his real estate holdings in Coral Gables, left an estate of only $300, it was revealed when his will was filed for probate today.

The widow was named executrix of the estate, consisting of equity in an automobile and a salary balance due from his job as Miami's postmaster.

Merrick was said to have devoted most of his income to the payment of claims growing out of the crash of the Florida real estate boom.

He was the developer of Coral Gables.

Colonel C. A. Bach, U. S. Coast Guard Retired, Succumbs Amphibian Falls

Colonel C. A. Bach, a retired Army officer, residing at 2416 Dellwood drive, N. W., died last night at the Fort McPherson hospital.

Colonel Bach is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Delkin Jones and Mrs. John R. Quintin.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—

The third naval district announced tonight that one man was killed and two were lost when a United States Coast Guard amphibian plane from the Brooklyn coast guard air station crashed into the sea in the vicinity of Gay Head on Martha's Vineyard.

The naval district said the plane was on a routine flight and that the accident was first reported this morning.

The district reported as dead William A. Boutillier, 28, of Walla Walla, Wash., and as missing Lieutenant Robert James Lafferty, 28, of Port Washington, N. Y., pilot, and Stephen Hohn Tarapchak, 37, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—Lieutenant General Brehon B. Somervell said today that the Nazis, who laughed when United States soldiers used trucks labeled "tanks" on maneuvers in the summer of 1941, "aren't laughing now."

"We passed the Nazis' tank production figure some time ago," the commander of the Services of Supply of the United States Army told defense workers. "But that's only one item. I could tell you the same story about guns, ammunition and other items—a most encouraging report."

"But it's not enough. We're still not getting the production we must have. We must face it and we'd do well to face it now. We have a long way to go before we win."

Somervell made that assertion before a cheering crowd of workmen at the Washburn Steel and Wire Company Works, one of his stops in a tour of key defense plants in the metropolitan area.

Speaking to 8,000 munition workers of the Atha plant of the Crucible Steel Company of America at Harrison, N. J., Somervell said:

"We have developed a new way of making heavy gun barrels. Within a few weeks one single American factory using this new process will be turning out each month more heavy gun barrels than all the factories of England turned out in the whole war."

"We have developed a new way of turning out artillery shells... one of the most important discoveries of the war."

He said it would result in a capacity to load 70 times as many shells as formerly, affording "an increase of 7,000 per cent in shell loadings."

At New York he said the enemy was obtaining production from the conquered peoples "with bayonets at their backs—and that's what you might face here" and referring to the sinking of supply-laden American vessels, Somervell said:

"You and all the others like you must build, and build more. We need everything you can make and we need it now. We can't coast and plan an attack for next month or next year. We've had enough of planning. We need action."

"Armed with the weapons you make—if you make enough of them and make them fast enough—the day will come when we march back to the Philippines. And we won't stop there. We'll march on to Tokyo and we'll keep on to Berlin."

Calling upon the workers in the Otis elevator plant in Yonkers to work harder, the general said "I pledge for the Army that with your all-out help, your fatigue and your sweat—and with our blood—we will write that new page (of history) so that all Americans and all free men and women everywhere, in all time to come, will read with pride the heroic saga of the second battle of Bataan."

Goodyear Is Testing Tires Without Rubber

AKRON, O., April 16.—(AP)—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is testing automobile tires made without rubber.

"We now have test cars on the road which are running on tires made without rubber," said an announcement. "We can make no further comment on this development at this time."

Compensation Strengthening For Jobless Of Canal Zone Under Attack Defenses Seen

J. J. Mangham, Bremen Banker, Files Suit in Fulton Court.

An attack on the constitutionality of the Georgia Unemployment Compensation law was made yesterday in a suit filed in Fulton superior court by J. J. Mangham, Bremen, Ga., banker and contractor, who was once a candidate for governor.

Mangham's petition was filed as an answer to an order of Judge Hugh M. Dorsey to show cause why he should not produce the names and wages of his employees at a hearing before W. D. Dickerson, acting director of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Mangham, in his petition, declares that he is a resident of Haralson county and that a Fulton court has no jurisdiction over him. He states that Section 11 of the compensation act is unconstitutional in that it gives the power of a court to the board of review of the unemployment bureau, and that it also violates the due process clause of the federal constitution. Under the Georgia constitution, Mangham says, civil cases must be tried in the county in which the defendant resides. The Mangham petition will be heard May 11.

175 Vocational Students Tell Of Their Work

Group Presents Its Employers at Annual Dinner.

Fulton county's high school vocational students, 175 of them, last night told about the work they are doing, and presented their employers at their annual employer-employee dinner.

The students, getting practical experience in 50 different vocations, and their employers comfortably filled the large tearoom at Rich's, and heard E. S. Papp, Fulton county defense co-ordinator, and himself a vocational student employer, point out the advantages of vocational study, both from the viewpoint of the student and the employer.

In introducing their employers, the students, engaged after school hours in getting practical experience in many crafts, told briefly what they are doing. Some are learning to be motion picture projection operators, while others are getting practical experience in office and clerical work, stenography, salesmanship, auto mechanics, printing, typewriter and adding machine repair work, home economics, welding, and jewelry and watch repairing.

John E. Drewry, Fulton county school superintendent, told briefly how the training system was introduced in the school system four years ago.

His grandfather, Dr. W. F. Melton, club president, presided.

People on the Kentish coast said the roar of the British planes eclipsed that of the German air force at the height of the Battle of Britain a year and a half ago, when Germany sent more than 500 fighters and bombers hurtling toward England in a single day.

This evening, on the third day of the RAF's own dawn-through-darkness onslaught, more strong formations of Spitfires crossed the water before dusk while many other squadrons were returning from the direction of Boulogne and Calais, still flying in perfect formation.

Nazi Return Blows. The Germans for their part struck back with a raid on a northeast England town in which at least 12 persons, five of them babies, were reported killed and many others were injured.

Nazi raiders also machinegunned areas along the southern English coast tonight, inflicting a small number of casualties.

A train standing in the station was among the targets raked by the low-sweeping Nazi airmen. The fireman was wounded but the passengers escaped injury.

The growing weight of the British daylight sweeps was seen by competent observers as an effort to force the Germans to disperse fighter plane strength which otherwise could be used in Russia or the Mediterranean.

The role of the new Bostons today indicated they might be what the British had long sought, a high-speed attack bomber to replace some older types whose slowness has made them easy targets.

Union Ousted Accused Radio Man Last July

Charged With Transmitting Messages Destined for Enemy.

William Arthur Schuler, 23, radio operator, arrested by the FBI in Los Angeles Wednesday on charges of transmitting messages destined for the enemy, was expelled from the American Communications Association last July for "anti-union activity," Joseph B. Selly, president of the CIO union, announced here yesterday.

Selly, who is attending the sixth annual convention of the communications unit of the union in Atlanta, said Schuler's arrest would lend "strength and credence to the contention of the CIO that unions provide a tremendous safeguard against the activities of persons whose work is inimical to the welfare of the nation."

Richard B. Hood, Los Angeles FBI agent, said Schuler had offered to transmit messages for foreign agents by the facilities of commercial wireless company of which he was an employee.

Famous Snead Letter Thrills Atlanta Sister

Private, 35, Tells Old A. E. F. Buddy They Must Finish Job.

Mrs. Ida Pope, of 532 Capitol avenue, S. E., is greatly thrilled by the wide publicity given in the American press to a letter written by her brother to an old friend of the A. E. F. in France and the Army of Occupation in Germany after the Armistice.

The brother is Private Carl C. Snead, stationed in a California camp. The letter was written March 1, so perhaps Snead is of higher rank now. For he was a captain in World War I. Which is the point of the story.

Carl Snead is 55 years old. He wasn't subject to the draft. He had been an officer, serving with credit. But he didn't go out for a commission or a desk job. He enlisted as a private. In Atlanta, just before Pearl Harbor.

In the letter to his old friend he wrote: "We must win this war and the peace we failed to win last time. I, for one, propose to put all there is in me into the job, and without a single personal motive. So let me—let us all—go marching on, shoulder to shoulder. Be the price what it may, I am ready and willing to pay."

John E. Drewry Talks on Literature

Talk on "Journalism and Literature" was given before the Atlanta Writers' Club last night by John E. Drewry, dean of the Henry Grady school of journalism, University of Georgia.

Also on the program, presented in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club, was Quimby Melton Jr., editor of the university campus publication, "The Red and the Black."

Gambling in Jail Charged To Trio

Additional troubles appeared on the horizon yesterday for W. C. Bowen, of an Oak street address; J. T. Mulkey, of Cartersville, and C. H. Wells, of a Washington street address.

The trio, held at police station for alleged minor city infractions, had new charges of disorderly conduct and gaming docketed against them after Turnkey G. M. Robinson walked into the cell where they were confined.

Robinson reported the men were shooting dice, and exhibited as evidence a dime, which he said was a part of the gaming pot.

As a result of Robinson's report, bonds for the trio, which had been previously held in default of small collaterals, were set at $100 each.

Housewives Can Get Sugar For Canning

Will Be Classed as Industrialists in Eyes of the Law.

With the advent of sugar rationing next month, housewives who like to put up preserves will be classed as industrialists in the eyes of the law.

"And this," said Regional Rationing Administrator Alexander Harris yesterday, "is assurance that the good housewife can quit worrying about canned fruits and vegetables."

Especially eager not to waste any food in war time, the government desires to have foods preserved, he said. "We do not wish to hamper this in any way."

To secure sugar for canning, in addition to that to which they are entitled for regular household use, housewives must register with a local rationing board as an industrial user.

Standard Form.

Then, on a standard form, she will fill out what fruits, vegetables or other foodstuffs she intends to can and how much sugar she thinks she will require.

The exact amount of sugar that will be allowed for a quart of preserves has not yet been set, Harris said.

If the application is approved by the rationing board, the housewife will receive a purchase certificate enabling her to buy the amount of sugar specified.

The rationing of sugar will begin about May 5. Purchases will be restricted to persons with the ration books, obtained at the time of registration.

Registration for wholesalers and retailers will be held April 28-29, while for household consumers the dates are May 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Generally the registration places will be schools, but other sites may be used at the discretion of local authorities.

Not Mandatory.
Although no one who has not registered will be able to obtain sugar, Harris pointed out it is not mandatory for every individual to register on the dates set.

Persons who fail to register on the regular dates will have to wait two weeks before applying to their local rationing board for a ration book. In the interim, of course, they will be unable to buy sugar.

Individuals may wait even longer before registering if they want to, but all registrations after the regular time must be done at local rationing boards.

Harris met Wednesday with rationing chiefs of the fifth congressional district, which includes the Atlanta and Decatur area. Preliminary plans were laid for the setup of the registration headquarters. Further meetings between now and April 28 will decide the whole plan.

Hancock 4-H Clubs To Hold Exercises

Special to THE CONSTITUTION, SPARTA, Ga., April 16.—The 4-H Clubs in Hancock county will celebrate "Club Sunday" at the Sparta Baptist church next Sunday and will hear a special sermon by the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Barrett. The Sparta and Culverton 4-H Clubs will sponsor the day here. On Sunday evening the Devereux and Linton 4-H Clubs will sponsor a similar meeting at the Devereux church.

Vast Expansion of Sub Fleet Voted To Run Axis From Atlantic

$900,000,000 Fund Approved By House Without Opposition

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—Determined to beat the enemy at his own game, the house passed today legislation calling for a vast expansion of the United States submarine fleet, at an estimated cost of $900,000,000.

Press Liberty Now on Trial, Editors Told

F. D. R. Confident of Papers' Patriotism, Price Says.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—The editors of many of the nation's leading newspapers—trustees of the freedom of the press—were told today that that freedom was now on trial through the invocation of wartime voluntary censorship.

Meeting in their twentieth annual convention, the American Society of Newspaper Editors heard Byron Price, censorship chief, representatives of the Army and Navy public relations offices and others discuss the role of newspapers in a nation at war.

They heard their president, Dwight Marvin, editor of the Troy (N. Y.) Record, declare that "our profession faces the supreme test, and urge them to be certain that the news we print be the unvarnished, unbiased truth and that editorials and comment be unpurchased and unpurchasable."

Price, former executive news editor of the Associated Press, on leave of absence for the wartime censorship post, declared it would be an unhappy day for all if it was found that the President's confidence in them had been misplaced.

"The President of the United States has put his confidence in your patriotism and your understanding," said Price, "and has turned his back on those who argue that only compulsory censorship can be effective."

He cautioned that the success of the experiment to make voluntary censorship work would not be determined by the office of censorship but "by the publishers and editors who control the policies of the individual publications."

He reviewed briefly the history of the American press and its survival of recurring crises, adding that in spite of all that had been endured "the newspapers of the United States may well find the year 1942 a period of supreme trial and judgment."

Without an opposing vote it sent to the senate the bill of Representative Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, to provide for immediate construction of an additional 200,000 tons of undersea craft.

Vinson, chairman of the naval affairs committee, said he could not, for reasons of military expediency, disclose how many submarines would be constructed under the new program, but earlier he had said "more than 100" would be built.

This number probably would come close to doubling the size and torpedo strength of the existing sub fleet. Vinson said members of the committee knew "how many submarines we need" and added they are being built now "faster than ever before."

The chairman indicated that the new fleet was intended to combat Axis activities in the Atlantic, where United Nations shipping losses have been heaviest.

"The war in the Pacific," he commented, "looks like an aviation war, but the war in the Atlantic looks like a submarine war."

"Experience in this war has demonstrated the extreme need for submarines," Minority Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, told the house.

"At least 1,000 first-class submarines are necessary," asserted Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi.

Action on the bill, introduced only last Tuesday, was as speedy as any since the Pearl Harbor attack. The naval committee approved it unanimously yesterday, and Vinson obtained its passage today under unanimous consent procedure. Prompt senate approval was taken for granted.

Vinson said work should be started on the new craft as soon as legislative action was completed, and added that as quickly as one submarine left the shipbuilding yards another would take its place.

In October of last year the Navy acknowledged it had 186 submarines, in addition to upwards of fifty of the new 1,500-ton cruiser type authorized under the 1940 naval program.

State Court Rules On Excise Taxes
Cities may include federal excise taxes paid by liquor dealers in valuations placed on liquor stocks for tax assessment purposes, the Georgia supreme court ruled yesterday.

The justices said that under the law federal liquor taxes must be paid before the liquor can legally pass into the hands of dealers or purchasers, and added that the taxes thus became part of the actual cost of the liquor.

Consolidated Distributors, a wholesale liquor dealer in Atlanta, sought to enjoin the city from including federal taxes in its ad valorem assessments of its liquor stock, claiming the city was attempting to levy on a tax and not on property.

Lyle wrote W. M. Robertson, superintendent of safety regulations of the federal agency, urging that the restrictions be made effective immediately. An attached map described the restricted area as a circle one and one-half miles in diameter and extending elongated into Cobb county to include the River pumping station.

Prompted by reports that airplanes flew low over waterworks properties last Monday and Tuesday nights and that guards fired rifles to drive them off, Lyle said he believes the government will co-operate to give all protection possible to Atlanta's only water supply source.

"State guards are on duty there," Lyle said in his letter to Robertson, "and any aircraft over this property is regarded as a potential danger to the properties which the guards are assigned to protect, and since the guards are military men, charged with the duty of guarding the water supply for half a million people, they use every resource at their command."

If the designation of a military restricted area is made as requested, it will be bounded roughly on the south by Georgia Tech and Madox park, on the east by the Pershing-Point apartments, on the north by Bobby Jones golf course and then extended a mile and a half northwest into Cobb county to include the River pumping station, and on the west by Proctor creek.

The closest airline shown on the map is the Atlanta-Chattanooga-Chicago line on the west side of the area, but which would not entail a shift of that route. None of the others are in the vicinity of the proposed restricted section.

Bar Fliers Over Waterworks, CAA Is Asked

Lyle Wants Air Agency To Put Restrictions Over District.

Designation of a seven-square-mile area surrounding the Atlanta waterworks as a restricted district from which all aircraft will be barred was asked yesterday of the Civil Aeronautics Administration by Mayor Lyle.

The action was the aftermath of the reported firing on planes by state guards protecting the water supply for Atlanta and the metropolitan area having a population of about 500,000 persons. The restrictions would include the Hemphill and River pumping stations, the giant reservoirs and all other waterworks properties.

Lyle wrote W. M. Robertson, superintendent of safety regulations of the federal agency, urging that the restrictions be made effective immediately. An attached map described the restricted area as a circle one and one-half miles in diameter and extending elongated into Cobb county to include the River pumping station.

Prompted by reports that airplanes flew low over waterworks properties last Monday and Tuesday nights and that guards fired rifles to drive them off, Lyle said he believes the government will co-operate to give all protection possible to Atlanta's only water supply source.

"State guards are on duty there," Lyle said in his letter to Robertson, "and any aircraft over this property is regarded as a potential danger to the properties which the guards are assigned to protect, and since the guards are military men, charged with the duty of guarding the water supply for half a million people, they use every resource at their command."

If the designation of a military restricted area is made as requested, it will be bounded roughly on the south by Georgia Tech and Madox park, on the east by the Pershing-Point apartments, on the north by Bobby Jones golf course and then extended a mile and a half northwest into Cobb county to include the River pumping station, and on the west by Proctor creek.

The closest airline shown on the map is the Atlanta-Chattanooga-Chicago line on the west side of the area, but which would not entail a shift of that route. None of the others are in the vicinity of the proposed restricted section.

of the long and cordial relations which have existed between his country and the United States.

"Rejected to Rejection," Asked if Welles had made any reply to the verbal communication from his government, Henry-Haye responded briefly:

"He rejected the rejection. He said he could not accept the viewpoint I was expressing."

Meeting newspapermen early in the day, Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said that recent efforts to hasten evacuation of American citizens from Vichy were part of a long-standing campaign to get United States citizens home out of the war zone.

Later Welles went to the White House, where he is understood to have made a report on the Vichy situation based on latest advices from Ambassador William D. Leahy.

Canada's prime minister, W. L. McKenzie King, called on Welles late this afternoon and it was understood their half-hour conference concerned relations with Vichy.

Both Canada and the United States have maintained diplomatic relations with the Vichy government since its establishment while Great Britain has not.

Memorial Day Exercises Set In Milledgeville

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 16.—Plans for the annual observance of Southern Memorial Day here Sunday, April 26, were announced today by members of the Robert E. Lee chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Major Jere N. Moore, Milledgeville, who is now on active Army duty at Camp Stewart, has been chosen as principal speaker. He will be introduced by Joe A. Moore Sr., Milledgeville mortician.

A parade from the courthouse to the city cemetery, where the annual exercises will be held, is planned. The Georgia Military College battalion and band, members of the U. S. C. and a group of Camp Wheeler soldiers will participate in the parade, which begins at 3 p. m.

Miss Floride Allen, who is in charge of arrangements, said an effort is being made to have at least 50 Camp Wheeler soldiers entertained in the homes of Milledgeville on Memorial Day.

Employment of Women Jumps 800 Per Cent in Farm Jobs

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—A special Agriculture Department survey on the farm labor situation indicated today that employment of women in agriculture had increased more than 800 per cent during the past two years.

Approximately 13 per cent of all workers on 41,000 typical farms in the survey were found to be women. Two years ago women made up only 1.5 per cent of all workers.

This would indicate, officials said, that around 1,200,000 women were now employed as farm workers compared with only 143,000 two years ago.

"Farm women and girls," the department said, "have gone to work doing light chores, milking and light field work in many regions as regular male workers have left to take industrial jobs and to join the armed forces."

The shift to feminine workers was found to be heavy in south Atlantic, west north central and Pacific coast states. In the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, the Dakotas, Washington and Oregon as many as 20 per cent of all agricultural workers were reported to be women.

Despite reports of a growing shortage of agriculture workers, the department said that the number of persons employed on farms on April 1 was only 97,000 less than a year ago. The number employed was said to be 2,483,000. To meet the sharp competition from other industries, farmers made more than the usual seasonal increase in farm wage rates during the past month, the department said.

Rates, however, were said to be average 28 per cent higher than a year ago.

where 1,000 acres were devastated.

There were no details on the train wreck. A British radio broadcast said it resulted from derailment—bare suggestion of sabotage—and put the number of German soldiers dead at 40. Such incidents in the past have been credited to saboteurs.

The inexorable maneuvering which brought Laval finally to power involved two conferences today with Petain, the aged chief of state.

It was a spectacle in which nothing could be seen except the shutting back and forth of the principal actors and nothing heard but their occasional scant comment upon arrival and departure as to the progress of the negotiations.

Greeted by Silence.
The day of maneuvering started at noon, when Laval's large black limousine, arriving from Paris, drew up before the government offices in the Parc hotel. The silence of 2,000 Frenchmen who had gathered there throughout the morning greeted the collaborationist leader.

Without pausing or so much as turning his head to the spectators, the short, swarthy Laval entered the building, accompanied by Fernand De Brinon, French representative in Paris. They were closeted immediately with Petain.

In less than an hour the two visitors departed. In mid-afternoon Laval and Petain had their second conference at the official residence of the chief of state, Pavillon Sevigne. As Laval entered these talks he declared that a new cabinet had been chosen, except for two names.

In the interim since Tuesday, when Laval's return to power was first announced, Laval had spent busy hours at Paris in consultation with several of his fellow collaborationists. He seemed today to have come back with a plan which needed only the formality of final discussion and name choosing before being put into effect.

Use Schools For Election, League Urges

Women Voters Believe Plan Will Increase Vote.

Mayor Lyle and members of general council yesterday were requested by the board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters to authorize the use of public school buildings as polling places in the coming special election for mayor.

In a letter, sent to the mayor and council, Mrs. James J. Selva, president of the league, pointed out that school buildings were used with marked success in the registration campaign, and the use of such buildings will add to the dignity and importance of voting.

"Citizens are becoming more and more accustomed to using the school buildings for various governmental registrations," the letter read, "and, in our opinion, this will get out a larger and more representative vote."

"In the past, polling places have been difficult to locate and inconvenient to reach. The schools, however, are most conveniently situated and always well known."

Court Declines To Void Augusta Barber Ruling

The Georgia supreme court declined yesterday to enjoin the enforcement of regulations established by the Augusta Barber Board or to declare an ordinance creating it invalid.

An injunction plea filed by J. E. Stephens, Augusta barber, in behalf of himself and other barbers was dismissed on the grounds that the petition was too general and indefinite.

The justices said, however, that since the petition failed to present a case in which it would be proper to determine the ordinance's validity, it would render no decision on the subject unless or until another case were brought before it.

Nazis Gather Resources for Summer Drive

High Pressure Recruiting Campaign Reported by OFF.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) The Nazis are gathering their resources, after a morale-shaking winter, to "stake the fate of the Axis on a final grand offensive before cold weather sets in again," the Office of Facts and Figures reported tonight.

This picture of the spring and summer of 1942 was fitted together, the agency said, from European broadcasts recorded by the Foreign Broadcast Monitoring Service.

Through the controlled radio and press, Hitler is conducting a "high pressure recruiting campaign for soldiers for the new offensive," it was said, and is forcing the Axis partners and satellites to do the same. Ranks of the storm troopers, Hitler's elite corps, have been opened to 17-year-olds and to recruits of "unproven political reliability."

Other signs of the preparation picked up by short-wave were "the stern tone of Goebbels' articles in 'Das Reich,' in the Nazi-inspired protestations of loyalty by satellite nations, in the extreme political activity of Nazi diplomats, in news of transportation shortages, tightened control over food, raw materials and labor, and in the stream of propaganda pressure directed at neutral countries."

Nazi Press Urges Patience Until June.

LONDON, April 16.—(AP)—German newspapers are telling their readers that the Nazi offensive on the Russian front will not start until June, and they are appealing to the German public to be patient meanwhile and keep confidence in the Nazi military command, dispatches from Stockholm said today.

Explaining the delay, these newspapers are saying that all operations in southern sector of the Russian front have been suspended because of deep mud, while in the northern area there still are frosts and operations are on a local scale.

While both the Soviet mid-day and night communiques reported no important changes during the day, a supplement said that

BLACKOUT BUGGY—Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, sporting his new spring sombrero, stands beside the

2,000 more Nazis were slain during the last two days on the Leningrad front. Fifty-two German planes also were announced as destroyed during Tuesday and Wednesday. Soviet losses were five planes yesterday.

Dispatches from the Russian front also said that the Soviet forces which broke the first German lines in the Bryansk sector 200 miles southwest of Moscow had forged still further ahead and occupied a dozen settlements abandoned by the Germans.

The German high command said isolated Soviet attacks were repelled with heavy losses.

The aviation authority of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, Major Nikolai Krainev, stated today that the Russians had destroyed more than 1,000 German planes in March and another 500 in the first 10 days of April. These high figures were a result of increasing Nazi spring air activity, Major Krainev said, and also of Soviet air superiority.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star declared the Germans lost 38,000 fliers in the first nine months of the Russian-German war, a period ending March 21. Furthermore, Red Star said, the Germans lost more than 7,200 aircraft from June to September of last year, and another 5,500 to 7,700 aircraft up to December of that year.

"This year the enemy's losses have mounted steadily," the paper added.

10 U. S. Planes Bill Proposes Forced Down U. S. Authority In Venezuela To Seize Autos

Two Injured in Accident During Mass Flight From Trinidad.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 16.—(AP)—Ten United States training aircraft have been forced down in the jungles of eastern Venezuela, it was announced today, but a U. S. Army communique indicated the only casualties were two injured airmen.

The planes, on a flight over sparsely settled territory from Trinidad to Brazil, came down at Baja, in the southwestern tip of Venezuela. One machine was wrecked in an attempted landing on a river.

The scene of the landing is about 400 miles south of the U. S. defense base in Trinidad.

The cause of the mass forced landing was not disclosed in the announcement from the Trinidad base command of the U. S. Army. American Army and Navy planes were sent to the scene with food, water and medical supplies as soon as word of the mishap was received, the announcement said.

One of these mercy planes landed in the river, where the crew of the wrecked plane was still stranded and picked them up and brought them here. There was no indication that any other of the airmen had been injured.

The announcement did not say when the forced landings took place or whether the flight had been resumed. The total number of men in the 10 planes was not stated.

Wholesale Prices Hit Highest Level Since '28

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) The Bureau of Labor Statistics today reported a gain of 2.2 per cent in wholesale commodities prices for the week ending April 11. This brought the level to 98.1 per cent of the 1926 average, the highest since 1928.

Increases of 1.4 per cent for hides and leathers, 4 per cent for farm products and 1 per cent for textiles were reported.

Although agriculture products rose less than one-half of one per cent during the week they stood at nearly 40 per cent higher than the mid-April level of 1941.

Measure Would Assure Transportation, Says Californian.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) The government would be authorized to seize any private automobile in the land under a bill introduced today by Senator Downey, Democrat, California.

Warning that there won't be enough rubber to keep anything like the present total of 30,000,000 automobiles operating, Downey called for action now to assure future transportation for war workers, for the mail and other services.

Some 10,000,000 cars should be removed from the roads and placed "in a vast pool to meet a serious transportation crisis we can expect within a year or so," he said.

Officials of the Office of Price Administration said Downey's measure was introduced without the knowledge of that organization, and that Price Administrator Leon Henderson indicated he had no present plans for commandeering passenger cars or tires. But they said the California lawmaker was "quite right" in asserting there would not be enough natural or synthetic rubber to keep 30,000,000 cars on the road.

"We are figuring on keeping less than 10,000,000 vehicles equipped with rubber," an OPA spokesman said. "In fact, we intend to keep the barest minimum possible rolling."

Henderson's office is charged with automobile and tire rationing.

Downey's bill would establish a $5,000,000,000 fund for acquiring a government pool of automobiles, parts, tires and supplies. Persons who wished could donate their cars; others would be purchased or requisitioned. In the latter case, where a private owner was not satisfied with the price offered, he could take a 50 per cent payment and appeal to the court of claims.

Two-car families ought to turn their extra machines over to the government, Downey declared, and persons who live within two or three miles of their jobs should walk.

The War of Nerves

The war of nerves is on in full force. It is a phase of the war in which the United Nations are on the aggressive, the Axis powers are the victims. It is turning one of his own weapons against Hitler in most effective manner.

Effective use of the war of nerves depends upon the possession of an armed strength sufficient to constitute an actual and serious threat to the enemy. For the first two years of the war that threat was Hitler's to use. That he did use it most effectively the very history of the war itself proves. His opponents were never able to effectively halt his march of triumph because they never knew where he would next strike.

Today the situation is reversed. It is Hitler who is nervously waiting for the next move of the Allied Nations, wondering and fearing from what side they will strike him next.

He knows that Russia is preparing a powerful offensive for the spring. His forces on the east are even now suffering terrific blows from the Soviet armies.

But there is another potential danger in the west. General Marshall, American chief of staff, is in England conferring, among others, with Lord Mountbatten, leader of those British Commando troops who have already done such effective invasion work. Hitler must tremble as he envisages the possibility of an invasion to his west and the establishment of a second European front.

And, added to this, must be considered the terrific air blows now being struck against the industrial centers of Germany by the RAF, blows that bring the jitters in more senses than one.

Even Japan is faced with the doubts and fears of a war of nerves, as American bombers strike them in the Philippines and as the American Navy drives home attack after attack off Japanese-occupied islands of the Pacific.

The war of nerves is on, mightily. And, whether or no a second front is established in Europe this year, whether or no we are ready to strike at Tokyo itself, every doubt, every fear and every worry implanted in Axis minds is beneficial to us.

They report Mussolini a pitiful mental wreck, hiding in his palace at Rome, already.

United China Relief

This week is being observed throughout the nation as China Week, during which it is hoped $7,000,000 will be raised to help in alleviating the suffering of the Chinese people resulting from the long fight against our mutual enemy, Japan.

Today, in Burma, British, American and Chinese are fighting as allies to keep open the Burma road, line of military supply. They fight with backs to the wall as the Japanese, in far greater number, press ever nearer their objective, the cutting of that road of supply.

But, whether or no the Burma road defense holds, there is another road by which we can continue to send the material evidences of our sympathy to the long-suffering Chinese.

It is to buy these material evidences of help, the medical supplies, the bandages, the foods and the other things that suffering humanity needs, that United China Relief seeks, this week, to raise its $7,000,000 from the people of America.

It is a worthy cause. It is part of our cause in double sense, for it is the cause for which we are at war and it is, too, the cause of humanity which the United States has ever championed.

If you can contribute your part, great or small, to United China Relief, send your gift to United China Relief, Inc., 1790 Broadway, New York. By the way, Wendell Willkie is honorary chairman of the organization.

Register—Then Vote!

The exercise of the franchise is one of the most vital duties of all citizens of democratic, free countries. It is one of those rights for which the Allied Nations are fighting and for which so many men are dying, today in battle.

It is almost inconceivable that any man or woman, eligible to vote in any public primary or election would, through indifference or for any other cause, neglect this right of the ballot. However, that many do neglect this fundamental right we know from past experience.

There is only one duty preliminary to voting, for the citizen. That is, he must register. By the list of registered voters election managers may determine if any man or woman not authorized has placed a ballot in the boxes. Registration is the simple and effective means of averting many election frauds.

Citizens must qualify, at the office of Fulton county's tax collector, T. Earl Suttles, not later than April 27 if they wish to vote in the special majority election scheduled for Atlanta. For voters in state, county and regular city elections the date of deadline is May 2. Once having registered a citizen does not have to register again, unless the legislature should enact new laws affecting this point.

Citizens of DeKalb county register at the courthouse in Decatur.

The present war is a struggle between democracy and dictatorship. Democracy admittedly has not yet worked perfectly, anywhere, but it is to retain the right to prove that democratic government can function perfectly that we fight. Yet, so long as there is one eligible voter who does not cast his ballot, unless prevented by unavoidable reasons, democracy is to that extent a failure.

Caulking the Leaks

A ship is made seaworthy by packing oakum between the timbers and plans. This work is done by specially trained workmen known as caulkers.

The American ship of state has been launched upon the sea of warfare. By the very nature of democracy, with its freedoms, but little could be done prior to that launching to pack the seams and to plug possible leaks. That is a task which has, perforce, to be done after the voyage to victory has begun.

However, one by one, we are stopping the leaks in our national ship of war.

Organized labor has promised there shall be no strikes in war industries.

Numbers of industrial concerns have turned back to the government excess profits they made on war contracts when costs proved less than anticipated.

We are exposing to the light of day cases where labor, for some fancied grievance or other, is deliberately slowing up production. Public opinion will not stand for such unpatriotic actions and thus this leak will eventually be plugged.

We are exposing industrialists who, for selfish reasons, have failed in 100 per cent cooperation in the war effort. Those who have selfishly withheld patent rights on essential war processes, for instance. Again, outraged public opinion will remedy this.

We have exposed and blocked more than one effort by special groups to dip unholy hands into the public treasury. In time we shall stop all unnecessary expense and thus be able to use our funds for the one objective, war victory.

One by one the law enforcement authorities are rounding up the human termites who, hiding under the cloak of "free speech" or "free press" are speaking and publishing seditious matter. These rats in the national ship will soon be cleared out.

There are innumerable ways in which, as a nation, we are daily girding ourselves more effectively for war.

Are you doing all you can, or is there a leak in your individual corner of the ship? If there is, get busy, now, and caulk it by working, saving, giving, thinking only for the winning of the war.

Georgia Editors Say:

SOLD DOWN THE RIVER (From The American Times-Recorder.)

The return of Pierre Laval, Hitler-admiring Frenchman, to power in the Petain regime of unoccupied France means the final complete surrender of the French government to Nazi Germany. It probably means that the French navy and all French resources, including man power as far as it can be induced, will be used in the Axis fight against the United Nations. It means that the freedom-loving French people have been sold down the river. The United States can no longer afford to even attempt to deal diplomatically with the Vichy regime.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

FRANCE HAS YIELDED WASHINGTON, April 16.—France has yielded herself to the Nazis. Not utterly and completely yet, but enough to cast a deep gloom over our hopes for preventing the Vichy government from accepting a policy of all-out collaboration with the Germans.

The re-entry of Pierre Laval into the Vichy government has those and worse implications. Until the end, we had hoped that the veteran Marshal Petain would somehow hold out against the Nazi demands—insist on a strict adherence to the terms of the armistice.

Only recently the United States had concluded an agreement touching all points at issue between this country and the government of Unoccupied France. So comprehensive was the understanding that it left no room for what has happened—Laval's taking over the reins of government. We had made our position sufficiently clear on that.

The only assumption we are left to make is that Hitler has delivered demands which could not be easily denied. It has been in his power since the fall of France to ignore the terms of the armistice and to take over the entire country. Only the uncertainty over the fate of the French fleet and French territorial possessions in Africa, coveted by Hitler, prevented an earlier showdown.

LAVAL IS PRO-AXIS Although France's former "peasant premier," as Laval chooses to call himself, has announced that he will follow a "middle-of-the-road" policy, whatever that may prove to be, his record of support for German collaboration moves has been so one-sided that officials here see nothing encouraging in his elevation to power. He has openly admitted that he wants to see the Axis win the war.

Long before Pearl Harbor, he told foreign correspondents that, while he appreciated the desire of Americans to "save France," he regarded such sentiment as misplaced for the reason that, as he saw it, the war was already lost. Germany, he felt, was destined to be the dominant nation of Europe, and there was nothing left for France but to collaborate in the new order.

Since then has come the United States entry into the war and the setback the Nazis have suffered in Russia. None of these developments has apparently changed the Laval frame of mind. Evidently the Germans own him body and soul.

Piece by piece, the Germans have chiseled away from the French the few bargaining points they had left after Paris fell. First, it was the concessions to the Japs to use French-Indo China for basing troops that opened the way for the Pacific outbreak. Without the concessions gained there, the Japs would never have found a jumping-off place for their successful attacks on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

ARSENAL FOR GERMANY Next, permission was given for Unoccupied France to be made a supply base and arsenal for the German army. Earlier the French battleship Dunkerque was returned to Toulon in violation of specific pledges given the American ambassador to Vichy, Admiral Leahy. General Weigand, commander of French forces in Northern Africa, was relieved of his post at Hitler's behest, and French supplies in the region turned over to Rommel's forces in Libya.

Against these repeated acts of bad faith, the United States and Britain have only been able to protest. There was little else we could do. No means of reprisals were at our command, except the refusal to send shipments of supplies so greatly needed in the Hitler's hands.

We know that we are going to win the war, but evidently the men of Vichy feel otherwise. They are playing the game that seems best to suit France's immediate problems, without regard to honor or the long-range benefits to themselves.

THE FINAL BLOW The final blow will come when and if the French fleet is turned over to Hitler.

It seems the next logical step of collaboration. The British, while restraining themselves for diplomatic reasons, have never had anything complimentary to say about the way the French defended themselves. They quit cold, as the truth of it is known.

These and other factors will make it go exceedingly hard for France in the final accounting of an Allied victory after the war. The consequence will be accorded the poor treatment that is her due.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Spring And Youth. It is customary at this time of the year to write a column about the coming of spring. About the blossoming shrubs and the flowers, the iris, the thistle, the red bud and the forsythia and the spirea. It is beautiful, we all realize. It is the revival of nature after the months of winter of eclipse, the winter of recuperation and germination. It is the revival of the human soul as he sees once again the ever-recurring promise of the eternity of life.

They say that blossoms of the spring are almost invariably of the brighter color, white and yellow and red, because they have to attract attention, to startle the insects and birds upon which they depend for pollination, into noticing them.

Anyway, their brightness is of important service to mankind. For they compel him, too, to notice them and to drink into his soul the renewed acceptance of the beauty of nature and the miracle of the earth's annual rebirth.

Other Blossoms.

There are, though, other blossoms which attract by gay attire in the spring, as well as those of the gardens.

Have you noticed them, the young girls upon the streets? Do they appeal to you with somewhat the same effect that a lovely iris in some garden has? In their light and bright colored print dresses, with the gayety in their eyes giving more color, with the eagerness of their young faces giving silent promise of the good world that is yet to come.

As I journey toward town in the morning to perform the daily stint, I pass a high school for girls and, my time is fortunate. It is when they are all on the way to classes.

There are scores of them on the campus, chattering away and waiting for the first bell. And I pass them for many blocks on either side of the school, strolling in groups of two or three or four under arm, toward the school.

They say "in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." I can understand it, thoroughly. Of course, I'm too old, a settled married man, a grandfather in fact. But still the sight of lovely feminine youth, in the spring, is a tonic for all of us, regardless of age or the condition of the arteries.

Perhaps it may be said without offense that, when young womanhood is at its loveliest, in the spring, it is good even for the older ones, men and women alike, to appreciate, once again, the beauty of youth. To realize how fine a thing young humanity is and how fine a promise it contains for the future of our stumbling race of humans.

Another School.

There is another school, near the Girls' High school. This is a high school for boys. I see comparative numbers of boys on their campus, en route to their school, too. I see quite a number of the boys, and I see quite a number of the girls, and who can blame them?

Most of these high school boys, nowadays, wear the uniform of the R. O. T. C. Fresh young lads in the khaki, beginning their schooling in military affairs. Learn discipline and drill.

The flag flies over their heads on the school flagpole and they typify, somehow, America in a little more realistic sense than any of their older fellows. For you can't help the feeling, as you see them, that these are the boys who will decide this war and who will have the shape of the after war world in their hands.

It is young America that will decide the destiny of freedom. For, although the immediate enemies, Germany and Japan, may be won within a year or two, the world will have years of devastation, of struggle, of suffering before the day comes when we can really start rebuilding human decency and human dignity upon the real foundation of the brotherhood of man.

Like those young high school boys and girls. But I tremble a little as I think of the responsibility that will rest upon their generation.

When we older ones are gone we may, perhaps, look from the world and give silent cheer to these who must take up the torch from the hands of those of us who have tried to hold it high. And don't think our generation has failed. It hasn't. It has done and is doing a swell job. And the best part of the job it has done is evidenced in the new generation which follows us.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Note of Pathos TUCSON, Ariz., April 16.—A note of pathos has marred the current night and jovial banter over proposals to banish racketeers from the unions and guarantee the free American's right to work at lawful toil subject to the licensing and taxing power of the private organization. Some of the union publications which, taken as a group, are conducted in the financial and political interest of the boss unioners at the expense of the workers, have reprinted the physician reports of the medical examiners of the draft boards. It appears that a considerable proportion of all the eligibles are rejected for physical unfitness and it is argued that all this is due to malnutrition.

The malnutrition, in turn, is charged to the incapacity of employers and the conclusion is that, for the sake of their children's health, American toilers should be required to pay from $25 to $300 or even as much as $3,000 out of their starvation poverty for passage through the factory gates. That this money might be better spent for milk and groceries for the young than on yachts, limousine jobs, racing stables and weekend air excursions to luxurious suites in Florida for prosperous unioners during the wintering time of the criminal scum is a thought which might occur to many objective thinkers.

Not All Malnutrition But, waiving that point, I think we may be of fairly good cheer anyway because not all physical imperfection is chargeable to malnutrition. Flat feet, for example, is the cause of a great many rejections, and asthma, which is entirely free of snobbishness, afflicting alike the son of suburban merchant and factory toiler, is the cause of others.

We have also many cardiacs whose trouble may be traced to a number of causes other than malnutrition and I have personal knowledge of two young men who never lacked wholesome food at home who were turned back for hay fever and trick knee, respectively. The hay fever subject was an applicant in aviation and may be found fit for one of the ground or sea forces but the trick knee case is a young giant, rising six feet, two, and still the doctors would not have him for the Army, although he walks with no limp and plays a fair game of tennis.

These have to count in young men suffering from certain impairments subsequent to venereal infection and others who have hereditary physical faults traceable to ancestral ills of the same type. And, finally, we will have to subtract some at least whose malnutrition was not due to poverty but to improper cuisine at home. So, altogether, I suggest that the case for malnutrition due to poverty, due to boss-rapacity, due to non-unionism, must be considerably less tragic than the kept press of the unioners would have us think.

Some Who Hungered But one naturally thinks now of the soldiers of China and Japan whose diet from childhood is considerably below the American standard, and of the poor but hardy Greek who wheeled on the invincible legions of the Duce and would have chased them into the sea but for the intervention of the mechanized robots of der Fuehrer, whose bitterest complaint against the civilized world was the starvation in childhood of these same faceless men of his. Many of the present fighting generation of British males also lived on short and ill-balanced rations when they were very young.

The Spaniards, tough and brave on both sides of their civil war, were born and raised poor, and our Russian allies of fighting age were conceived in famine and grew to stalwart manhood through a succession of famines. Even the French were not well fed by our standards as French children never are, what with their coffee and wine and their failure in war was due more to politics than to physical weakness of the individual soldier. Hammered no worse than the British, they fell away in confusion reminiscent of their national parliament, which was the source of their fatal weakness.

One might like to know, if malnutrition of the young is an important factor in this rate of rejection, what proportion of the earnings of the parents was spent on tobacco, for example, or on whiskey and movies, three very popular and very expensive non-essentials which adorn our standard of living, and what on fuel, rubber and mechanical wear and tear for frivolous mileage in their automobiles.

The less only into conjecture but, if it is truth we seek to cure our ills, we thwart ourselves in blaming boss-greed beyond the right degree. Added to the net family income of the toiler, the billion-and-more a year of earnings that comes out of the top of union fees and dues might buy a distinct improvement in the diet of the young of those who pay the toll.

and irregular progress from barbarism to civilization has acquired and laid up."—Charles W. Eliot, The Harvard Classics.

PRODIGIOUS

Prodigious is an adjective pronounced pro-DIG-i-ous. It is accented on the second syllable (dig) which is pronounced like (dij) and the third syllable (ious) is pronounced like (us).

Prodigious means huge, bulky, voluminous, stupendous, marvelous, incredible, overwhelming, as prodigious mountains; prodigious fortunes; prodigious expenses; prodigious strength.

Boulder dam is one of the most prodigious constructions ever attempted by man.

An accurate count of the number of foreign born in this country would be a prodigious undertaking.

The nations of the world are spending prodigious sums of money on armaments.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL.

TRAIN FROM FLORIDA We hurried from the boat to the sleeper waited. The train was crowded with America; with the warp and woof of America got on at each station.

The first one I noticed wore blue. She came into the coach, one flat wiping tears out of her eyes, the flat being ground alternately into each eye. There were lipstick smears about her mouth, most of them put there deliberately by the four girls who had kissed her good-bye before she boarded the train.

She looked ludicrous, standing there with packages under one arm, her face smeared with tears and lipstick. She sat down and composed herself and her face.

She was about 23. She was, she told the gentleman who had the other half of the seat, going to Jacksonville to be married. The young officer couldn't get leave from duty.

The packages contained a part of her trousseau. She talked about her aunt, who had raised her and who couldn't go to Jacksonville. She and the boy had known each other a long time. They had gone fishing together in Indian river. She talked fast and excitedly, trying to forget leaving home and trying to appear calm. She was attractive in a plain sort of way, neat and very excited, about going to be an Army officer's wife.

She and the middle-aged man repeated all the trite formulas for successful marriage.

"You've got to understand one another's problems. . . . It's a matter of compromising. . . . If you don't like his friends and he doesn't like yours you'll have to make new ones. . . . You never really get to know a person until after you're married."

And so on.

"NOW, DOCTOR . . ." Down the aisle a motherly looking woman in a neat, new print dress got up and moved two seats down to where a young man nodded over a magazine.

"Yes, ma'am, I am a doctor from —?"

"I thought so. I heard you were there and doing well. I wanted to ask you a question. My daughter's little girl has got nephritis. I don't think she's got it. But he says so. Now this doctor she has is doing this for the child. He is giving her a lot of orange juice and water and not much medicine. He says to let nature do the work. That's not my idea of a doctor."

"The young doctor tried to look wise and judicious and succeeded in looking overly solemn."

"Well," he said, "rest is a great thing in nephritis. It takes time. It's pretty bad in a child. Give her time."

"I just wanted to know," she said, "My idea of a doctor is one that gives them something for what ails them. How is old Mrs. — down at Melbourne? Is she getting any better?"

"Well, some. She's old, you know, and at that age."

Soon the motherly looking and slightly officious but well-meaning woman was back in her seat, busily engaged in talking with her seat companion, who kept nodding, nodding her head in acquiescence.

Her type is a part of America, and not such a bad one as she seems.

THE WAR'S STAMP Across from me a man of 55 or thereabouts sat with his wife, a thin-faced, somewhat grim looking woman who knitted.

The conductor stopped to talk. The man was a railroad man traveling on a pass with his wife. The conductor told him the pass had been wired on ahead for a transfer.

"Going up to see the boy, eh?" said the conductor.

"Yes, he's doing mighty well. He's got promoted."

"That's fine," said the conductor.

"Yes, he's a good boy," said the railroad man in the seat, his close-shaved face pink and scraped looking; his suit obsolescent. The woman knitted, her expression never changing, but one could see she listened to every word and her eyes were warmer.

In the front of the car two soldiers and two girls, new acquaintances, laughed and giggled and drank Coca-Colas and ate fruit and drank milk and ate peanuts and laughed and giggled. The stamp of the war is everywhere.

A woman called to another across the aisle and said: "Been to see your boy?"

"Yes, down to Key West. He's in submarines."

"Submarine! I wouldn't like that. Not me."

"Well, it wouldn't be my choice, but he's crazy about it. Just crazy about it. They sent him to New London to school just when he got out of Annapolis. He looked fine." (She was a sweet-faced woman with gold-rimmed glasses.)

Here and there soldiers and civilians slept in their seats. We rode on to Jacksonville, a segment of America in a railroad car, all of us living illustrations of what we fight for and live by. There were hopes and ambitions and joys and maybe some sorrows, although I saw none, in that car. (I really wanted to write about Laval and Petain and Darlan, but I couldn't forget that car up from Florida.)

Fighting Men Sidetrack Little Rights While Saving Big Ones

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Like most other arguments, this one about the 40-hour week generates more heat than light.

So far it has served only to stir up prejudice, antagonism and bitterness—chiefly because the opposing groups argue about different things and ignore inconvenient facts.

One says the law limits working hours to 40 a week—which, of course, it does.

The other answers that working hours are not limited at all—which is true so far as it goes.

For that matter, if the law limited working hours to 10 a week, the number of hours men could work would still be unlimited. But employers would go broke paying time and a half for all hours over 10.

Economists say extra time pay will add $4,000,000,000 to present war costs.

But this may or may not add to the public's burden. So far as the taxpayer is concerned, it makes no difference who gets his money; he suffers equally in either case.

When an industrialist is allowed enormous and unreasonable profits, he can afford to pay time and a half for all hours over 40. But if his profit is reasonable, and is based on straight-time labor cost, he can't fulfill his contract without loss if his labor cost is increased.

But all of this is beside the point. It ignores the fact that we are at war. The partisans now quarreling about wages and hours are like men who quarrel about the construction of a storm cellar while a cyclone bears down upon them and their families.

While some men are fighting and dying to save our country, the only sane and decent course for other men is to forget everything else except the job of winning the war.

Soldiers are sacrificing. Taxpayers are sacrificing. Are organized workers and industrialists the only ones whose rights and profits are more important than the nation's safety?

Workers should be protected from exploitation by greedy and unfair employers. That is obvious. And workers' rights, like those of other citizens, should be preserved—after the war is won.

But winning the war should be the sole concern of every decent citizen until the job is finished.

The only thing that matters is getting more work done. If profits will get more work done, pay profits. If double time will get more work done, pay double time. If drafting both factories and workers will get more work done, draft them.

Industrialists and organized workers are a minority, and other people have rights, too. Chief of these is the right of saving our country and our freedom. And anything that interferes with getting the job done must be stopped—or none of us will have any rights.

Treasury To 'Ring Doorbells' To Spur War Bond Sales

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau informed congress today the Treasury soon would start ringing doorbells once a month to stimulate war bond purchases—and hinted broadly that the administration does not contemplate compulsory savings.

"We expect to go into every county and ring every doorbell once a month," Morgenthau told the house ways and means committee a short time after indicating at a press conference that President Roosevelt still favors voluntary rather than forced bonds purchases.

The cabinet officer told the committee "we have a plan in preparation" to stimulate voluntary purchases, which have dropped from a rate of $1,000,000,000 a month in January to $500,000,000. But he quickly explained the Treasury did not "intend to paint houses yellow" or put people "behind barred wire" if they did not buy bonds.

With sales lower than during the period immediately after Pearl Harbor, some administration officials have advocated forced savings and a tax program much greater than the pending $7,610,000,000 one to help control inflation.

But President Roosevelt was reported to have sided with Morgenthau in opposition to those steps. Morgenthau, intensifying his drive to head off forced savings, took four representatives of labor and management from General Motors Corporation before the committee to explain that company's scheme of voluntary pay roll deductions for bond purchases.

"I would not be giving this demonstration of the value of voluntary methods unless I felt I was in tune with the President," he told his press conference just before riding to the capitol.

After listening to the GMC representatives for an hour, Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the senate finance committee, who had been a spectator, asserted publicly that their "job" appeared to be "most thorough."

"The program has to be all voluntary or all compulsory," George added, "if it can be worked out on a voluntary basis, it would be better for the country and the treasury."

The ways and means committee plans to complete hearings tomorrow on the $7,610,000,000 program outlined by Morgenthau March 3 and start writing the new bill next week.

CLERICAL ACTORS—Presbyterian ministers will play parts in "Up From the Ashes," a play depicting 75 years' history of the Atlanta Presbyterian, to be presented next Wednesday night at Agnes Scott College. Left to right are the Rev. Robert Hough, Capitol View church, who will play Dr. John S. Wilson; the Rev. Albert Kirkoff, Ormewood Park church, who will enact Alexander H. Stephens, and Dr. D. P. McGeachy, Decatur First church, author of the play.

Jack Williams New Head of Savings Group

Succeeds Leo Leader, Who Becomes Chairman of Board.

Jack Williams, editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, yesterday was elected president of the Georgia Savings and Loan League at the annual convention held at the Biltmore hotel.

He had served as vice president, and succeeds Leo Leader, of Albany, who retired to become chairman of the board of trustees. W. O. DuVall, of Atlanta, was elected a vice president.

At a meeting featured by an address by Horace Russell, former city councilman and now chief counsel of the United States Savings and Loan League, the association also re-elected the following officials: Willis Edwards, Newnan; Theo. F. Balk, Augusta, and P. C. Maxwell, Elberton, vice presidents, and Mrs. Betty Peeler, Atlanta, secretary and treasurer.

This morning, stockholders of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, N. C., will hold their meeting preceding the start of the southeastern group conference of the United States Savings and Loan League this afternoon. Sessions of the group will be continued tomorrow.

O. K. LaRoque, president of the Winston-Salem bank, will make his annual report as a feature of this morning's session.

Julius McCurdy, president of the southern conference group, which meets this afternoon for the second Atlanta session in the past 12 years, will preside. Fernor S. Cannon, president of the United States League, will speak at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and discussion of operating policies will follow. The remainder of the afternoon will be devoted to sightseeing tours and entertainment.

At the annual banquet tonight, Dr. Melchior Palyi, economist of the University of Wisconsin and exiled advisor to the Reichsbank, will speak.

Atlanta Is Made U. S. Egg Center

Establishment in Atlanta of the first concentration point in Georgia for the purchase of eggs by the federal government was announced yesterday by the State Agricultural Department. The purpose of the program, Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder said, is to facilitate government purchases and to provide a better cash market for Georgia producers. Linder said federal authorities have contracted with the Atlanta Milling Company as purchasing agent in Atlanta for the buying of Georgia eggs at prices set by the Agricultural Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Friday has been designated as the first sale day. Thereafter, sale days will be Tuesday and Fridays of each week.

Metropolitan's Singers Delight Dallas Throngs

Jan Pearce and Lily Pons in Donizetti's 'Lucia' Win Acclaim.

By The Associated Press. DALLAS, April 16.—The Metropolitan Opera Company tonight presented Mozart's "Don Giovanni" with ballet, in Fair Park auditorium, with John Brownlee in the title role.

The opera season began here last night with a performance of "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Donizetti, in which appeared Lily Pons and Jan Pearce.

The opening night crowd was only slightly smaller than those of prewar days. There were the usual late arrivals, but Stage Director Desire Defreix meant it when he said productions would start promptly at 8 p. m. and nobody would be seated while the curtains were up.

Although Miss Pons had been under a specialist's care with a slight cold, Dallas critics said her performance was flawless. She was praised not only for her singing, but for costumes, with which she "gilded the lily."

A high point of "Lucia" was the sextet, sung by Norman Cordon, Miss Pons, Brownlee, John Carter, Thelma Votipka and Pearce. Pearce, the graduate tenor of Radio City Music Hall, was singing the second "Edgardo" of his life, his first with Lily Pons and his first Metropolitan. Preparation consisted of a piano rehearsal Tuesday night at a Dallas hotel.

"Mr. Pearce, however, generally knew what to do with himself and certainly knew what to do with Edgardo's music," wrote John Rosenfield, of the Dallas News.

"If his presence and histrionic grace were somewhat reminiscent of Caruso and Gigli, so was his singing."

"POW-O-LIN PROVED ITSELF IN MY CASE," STATES ATLANTA FEDERAL RESERVE BANK GUARD

"Awful Gas Pains, Bloating, Indigestion and Constipation Made Life Miserable for Me," Declares Mr. Rutledge. Tells of Blessed Relief Pow-o-lin Brought.

The grateful, voluntary praise of thousands of Georgia men and women attests the record Pow-o-lin has earned in bringing relief and happiness into thousands of homes. For instance, Mr. M. C. Rutledge, Federal Reserve Bank Guard, well-known resident of 1091 Euclid Ave., N. E., Atlanta, declares:

"Gas pains, bloating and indigestion were the bane of my life. Solid food hurt me, generating gas, assuring that much me feel so full, bloated and smothered I could hardly get my breath. I was often attacked by headaches that made my head feel it was being pounded with a hammer. I felt dizzy and worthless, nerves seemed jumpy and I felt fatigued and exhausted at the least exertion. Constipation was so bad I had to take strong, weakening laxatives that seemed to dynamite me and make me feel worse than before taking them. No matter what means I tried I didn't get much relief. I had just about given up hope of finding the relief I so sorely needed.

MR. M. C. RUTLEDGE.

"Pow-o-lin proved wonderful in my stubborn case, bringing me speedy, happy relief from my sluggish, achy, worthless, let-down feeling. Food seems to give me added strength and energy and I am relieved of the indigestion, gas, bloating and unnatural fatigue. Don't believe I ever felt more energetic or enjoyed my work more. Pow-o-lin proved a blessing to me."

Pow-o-lin is a purely herbal preparation for the relief of distress as plagued Mr. Rutledge when due to constipation. Thousands praise it. Pow-o-lin may be obtained at all Jacobs Drug Stores. $1.25 size special, 98c. By mail add 10c for postage.—(adv.)

Press Women Will Honor Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings

• • • EVEN THOUGH celebrities come to Atlanta by the carload, or so it seems, few there are whose visits could create as much genuine interest as that of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, famous author of the Pulitzer prize novel, "The Yearling."

She will be here on Tuesday, May 5, to lecture for the benefit of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross. Her talk, one of a series in the "World Affairs Symposium," will be heard at 4 o'clock that afternoon at Rich's, Inc., sponsors of the symposium. Following her appearance on the lecture platform, the author will be honored at the informal cocktail party to be given by the members of the Atlanta Woman's Press Club at the Piedmont Driving Club. Guests for the affair will be limited to the members of the club, Atlanta friends of the honor guest and a group of the literary set.

In private life the author is Mrs. Norton Baskin and makes her home in St. Augustine, Fla. She will be accompanied to Atlanta by her husband, whom a number of Atlantans met during the now famous "Gone With the Wind" festivities.

The novelist is one of those delightful persons whose naturalness and wit charm everyone with whom she comes in contact. She is famous for her sense of humor as for her writings. A good example is the following excerpt from the note she sent in answer to the Press Club's invitation:

"It is immensely good of you to want to have a cocktail party for me . . . and I am delighted to accept. My husband will enjoy coming legitimately, since at your party before the premiere of 'Gone With the Wind,' he slunk in on an unused card as Julia Peterkin."

Although the author's latest novel, "Cross Creek," was released only about two weeks ago, already it is on the best-seller list and bids fair toward being another prize winner.

• • • WHEN Anne Brantley begins housekeeping as the bride of Lieutenant Arthur Snellgrove next month, she will have a complete chest of flat silver with which to set her table. A dozen of EVERYTHING, if you please!

You see, when Anne was a tiny little girl, her family started collecting silver for her in the lovely Colfax pattern. On such auspicious dates as birthdays, Christmas, and special anniversaries after that, she received a piece or two of silver. The same was done for her sisters, Jane and Betty, with the result that each now has a complete set, or a very nearly complete one. When Anne's engagement was announced last week, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Brantley, filled in the few pieces that she needed to finish her chest.

The only time Anne's silver was ever used was on her 18th birthday, when a family dinner party was held. Then it was put back into the chest to await the all-important occasion of her marriage.

The same procedure followed for her sisters, their 18th birthdays marking the only time their silver was used, thus making a pretty family custom of the novel idea.

• • • WHEN Sarah Browne and Charles Blackwood begin housekeeping at their home on Sinclair avenue upon their return from their wedding trip, among their furnishings will be some handsome pieces which the groom-to-be made several years ago. One is a walnut secretary which he made while at Tech High school and which won for him a medal in craftsmanship. Another piece is a solid walnut table made from a log Charles found floating in the Chattahoochee river. He cured the wood, fashioned it into a large table, decorated it with carving, and now it is ready for use.

Sarah's favorite flowers are orchids, and when she ascends the aisle at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon to become Mrs. Blackwood, she will carry a huge bouquet of lavender orchids, surrounded by maiden-hair fern.

Dunaway Gardens Attract Visitors

Visitors from many sections of the country are being attracted by the splendor of Hettie Jane Dunaway gardens, near Newnan, which may be reached within an hour. The gardens are now at their height of beauty and Mrs. Wayne P. Sewell, whose genius created them, is now being rewarded with the largest number of visitors ever before recorded. An antique show, which has been in progress the past 10 days and is just closing, was staged in one of the unique buildings that characterize the gardens.

People from every section of Georgia are daily thronging the gardens, the natural scenic beauty of which is enhanced by myriads of flowers of many kinds, with azaleas predominating at this time. Fed by seven large springs gushing from the hillsides, the terraced gardens are pronounced by authorities as being comparable to the famed hanging gardens of Babylon, and are accentuated by beautiful waterfalls and splashing cascades that add to the charm of the setting.

Wesleyan Group II.

Mrs. J. H. Beckham will be hostess Saturday at 2:30 o'clock to Wesleyan Alumnae Group II. A nominating committee will be appointed and other matters of importance considered.

Mrs. W. G. Bryant and Mrs. W. H. Lewis will present a program on "Distinguished Women."

Miss Eunice Hazel Engaged To Wed Townsend Fugitt Jr.

Social interest is focused upon the announcement made today of the betrothal of Miss Eunice Marie Hazel, daughter of Mrs. Eric Freeman Hazel and the late Mr. Hazel, to Carroll Townsend Fugitt Jr. The wedding will take place May 16 in the Winship chapel of the First Presbyterian church at a late afternoon ceremony.

Miss Hazel is the only daughter of Mrs. Hazel, the former Miss Florence Liskow Blumenthal, of Houston, Texas, and the late Mr. Hazel, of Caruthersville, Mo. The bride-elect's maternal grandparents are Louis J. Blumenthal and the late Mrs. Annie Liskow Blumenthal, of Houston, Texas. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hazel, of Caruthersville, Mo.

The pretty young bride-elect is a graduate of North Avenue Presbyterian school, where she was chosen the "Friendliest Girl" and served as president of the senior class. She was a member and officer of the Sunev sorority. She later attended Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., where she was elected a senior sister advisor and was active in campus organizations. She is connected with the Retail Credit Company.

Mr. Fugitt is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Townsend Fugitt. His sisters are Miss Dorothy Fugitt, Mrs. James B. Young, Miss Marion Fugitt, of Rock Hill, S. C., and Miss Edith Fugitt, of Atlanta and Hartwell.

Mr. Fugitt is the former Miss Marion Lee Forsdick, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Forsdick, of Memphis, Tenn. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Fugitt, of Montgomery county, Maryland, and Washington, D. C.

Mr. Fugitt is a graduate of Boys' High school, where he was a member and officer of the Alpha Pi, social fraternity. He is attending the University of Georgia Evening College and is affiliated with the Atlanta Journal.

After the ceremony the bride changed to her traveling ensemble of peanut beige worn with baggy slacks and a matching blouse and blouse were magnolia green.

Mrs. Crockett, the bride's mother, was gowned in navy blue with navy accessories, and her flowers were pink roses and violets. Mrs. Lawson, the groom's mother, wore navy sheer and her accessories matched. Her flowers were sweetheart roses.

Among out-of-town guests were Mrs. Walter F. George, of Washington, D. C., aunt of the bride; E. J. Matthews, Misses Louise and Evelyn Matthews, uncle and aunts of the groom, and Mrs. Virgil Hammon, of Tallahassee, Fla., aunt of the groom.

Mrs. Clifford Brady Heads Auxiliary.

Ladies Auxiliary to Marcus W. Beck Jr. Post No. 3027, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, met recently and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Clifford Brady; secretary, Mrs. Mabel Smith Jr.; vice president, Mrs. Anna Coggeshall; treasurer and secretary, Mrs. Lucille G. Irvine; conductress, Mrs. Bertha Gossett; guard, Mrs. Lillian Burton; chaplain, Mrs. Helen Sox; historian, Miss Agnes Irvine; trustees, Miss Agnes Irvine, Mrs. Lillian Burton and Mrs. Fannie Thomas.

Mrs. Lucille G. Irvine, past national deputy chief of staff, will install the officers at the next meeting. A benefit party is being planned by Mrs. Clifford Brady, chairman of the ways and means, to be held in the home of the president, Mrs. Fannie Thomas, on April 24 at 8 o'clock.

Masonic Night.

Masonic night will be observed Saturday evening by Atlanta Assembly No. 5, Order of Rainbow for Girls, when the degree work will be exemplified for Masons particularly. Members of the Eastern Star chapters and Masons are invited. The meeting will be held at Greenfield lodge hall, F. & A.

Mrs. Hubert Rawiszer, a member of the Evergreen Garden Club, for the third time was sweepstakes winner in the fourth annual Tulip Show, having yesterday been awarded the perpetual challenge vase. Mrs. Rawiszer also was awarded the perpetual trophy for the largest collection of named varieties of tulips, having also won this award for the third time. Pictured with Mrs. W. B. Franklin was awarded a $5 merchandise certificate as the blue ribbon winner in Section C, Group 37, Class B. Mrs. Henry H. Ogden was awarded a $5 merchandise certificate as blue ribbon winner in Section D, Group 235, inclusive.

Mrs. Hubert Rawiszer Wins Sweepstakes at Tulip Show

An interesting feature of the tulip show, held by the Tulip Study Club yesterday and today in Rich's tearoom, is that the majority of the blooms displayed were American-grown. In past years practically all of the prize-winning specimens were imported from Holland.

Mrs. Hubert Rawiszer, a member of the Evergreen Garden Club, was awarded the perpetual challenge vase for the third time. The vase was presented by the Tulip Study Club and donated by its president, Mrs. J. J. Nicholson. Mrs. Rawiszer also won for the third time the Myron E. Freeman perpetual trophy for having the largest collection of named variety tulips in the show, as well as receiving the special award, a purple ribbon, for the best specimen entry.

The purple ribbon for the most outstanding artistic arrangement was awarded the Peachtree Garden Club, the display having been arranged by Mrs. Roby Robinson Jr.

The Mrs. Clyde L. King perpetual trophy was awarded Mrs. Edwin Haas for the most outstanding entry of three tulips, any group, any color. Mrs. Ed Hitt received a $5 merchandise certificate for the most outstanding entry of three tulips in Section C. Mrs. W. B. Franklin was awarded a $5 merchandise certificate as the blue ribbon winner in Section F, Group 37, Class B. Mrs. Henry H. Ogden was awarded a $5 merchandise certificate as blue ribbon winner in Section D, Group 235, inclusive.

In Section K, open to garden clubs only, the winners were: Group 1, triad color scheme, first, Northwood, Mrs. John Pye; second, garden division of the Decatur Woman's Club, Mrs. R. A. Manning; third, Iris Garden Club, Mrs. Raymond Nelson.

Group 2, frozen loveliness, first, Lullwater Garden Club, Mrs. Harvey Payne; second, Camellia Garden Club, Mrs. Marion Talley, Mrs. Charles Shepherd and Mrs. Warren Foster; third, Peachtree Park Garden Club, Mrs. Albert G. Callaway and Mrs. Hubert Snider.

Group 3, accent on spaces, first, Ivy Garden Club, Mrs. Westfield Born; second, Piedmont Garden Club, Mrs. Rhodes Perdue; third, Azalea Garden Club, Mrs. Ray Welsh.

Group 4, arrangement for occasional table, first, Gardania Garden Club, Mrs. E. K. Higginbotham; second, Northwood Garden Club, Mrs. David E. Miller; third, Pine Tree Garden Club, Mrs. Guy Carpenter; honorable mention, Clay Hills Garden Club, Mrs. Harry Gilham.

Group 5, still life, first place, East Lake Garden Club, Mrs. W. C. Moseley; second, Dogwood Garden Club, Mrs. Forest Smith; third, Spade and Trowel, Mrs. D. W. Brooks.

Group 6, arrangements of tulips in different levels, reflecting "rhythm," first, Peachtree Garden Club, Mrs. Roby Robinson Jr.; second, Brookwood Hills Garden Club, Mrs. Asbury Greene; third, Boxwood Garden Club, Mrs. Joel Hunter Jr.; honorable mention, Atkins Park Garden Club, Mrs. Sigmam, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Brock.

Group 7, a color scheme, shades or tints selected from a flower print, first place, Decatur Woman's Club's garden division, Mrs. Fred Slaght; second, Clifton Road Garden Club, Mrs. B. N. Jordan; third, Pine Tree Garden Club, Mrs. Forrest Fowler; honorable mention, Planters' Garden Club, Mrs. Wilbur Glenn.

The blue ribbon winners in the specimen classes were Mesdames Forrest Adair Jr., C. A. Rauchenberg, Hubert Rawiszer, Thomas B. Payne, W. B. Blackman, John L. Blick Jr., Henry H. Ogden, R. H. White, Edwin Haas, T. C. Denardie, C. Fischer, Ed Hitt, W. B. Franklin and J. W. Lundeen.

The show, which opened yesterday, will remain open today from 9:30 to 5 o'clock.

Bazar Planned At All Saints

The annual junior bazar, sponsored by the All Saints church school, takes place tomorrow afternoon and evening at the parish house. Proceeds from the small admission charged will benefit missions.

There will be a number of booths filled with prizes, cakes and candy, and in addition to door prizes there will be a program featuring games, dancing, cake walk and fortune telling. Moving pictures will be shown at 4:15 and 8 o'clock.

Rev. Cyril Best is in charge of the bazar and is being assisted by the following teachers in the church school: Mesdames L. W. Acosta, Crawford Gurley, I. H. Allen, Misses Mary Plum, Frances Gowan, Marion Smith, Vera Thomas, Mary Bosworth and also Douglas Acosta, A. H. Sterne, James Hancock, W. H. Barnwell and W. W. Davidson.

Dr. John B. May To Lecture Today.

One of the nation's most widely known naturalists and photographers, Dr. John B. May, will lecture this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club under the auspices of the Fernbank Forest Association. His lecture will be accompanied by motion pictures in color illustrating of his subject, "Wildflowers."

Dr. May arrived Wednesday in the city, where he is being greeted by a number of acquaintances made on former visits here. He has appeared on two previous occasions before Atlanta Garden Club groups.

Serving on the reception committee will be members of the Fernbank governing board, of which Mrs. Harry L. Greene is chairman. Decorations are in charge of Mesdames Edward Van Winkle, Rutherford Ellis, John Sibley, Walter Sturdivant and James Dunlap.

Wesleyan Service Guild Will Meet.

The Atlanta East District of Wesleyan Service Guild will meet Monday evening at the Grace Methodist church. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock with Miss Ruby Cowan and Mrs. Howard Jones as hostesses.

The devotion will be given by Miss Virginia Peed, from Glenn Memorial church. Music will be rendered by Mrs. Myrtis Trimble Pate, Mrs. H. B. Trimble and Mrs. Elmo Moore will speak.

Reservations for the dinner can be made by calling the secretary, Mrs. S. R. Durham, HE. 1359-W, or one of the local guild presidents.

Wiener Roast.

The Choir Club of St. John's Episcopal church, College Park, will have a wiener roast this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. R. Burns on Hogan road.

Garden Pilgrimage To Be Sponsored In College Park

On Saturday at 3 o'clock Mrs. Harry Gould, chairman of the pilgrimage committee of the garden division of the College Park Woman's Club, will open her garden at 219 West Walker avenue, College Park, to the visitors making the annual garden pilgrimage sponsored by the garden division of the College Park Woman's Club. Mrs. Fred Schaefer, finance chairman, will have the tickets on sale at Mrs. Gould's. Each ticket will entitle the holder to visit 14 of the outstanding gardens of College Park, each of which has been selected for its landscape architecture and wealth of bloom at this season.

Transportation will be provided for those who do not have cars if they will notify Mrs. Hubert Hunt on their arrival at Mrs. Gould's. The pilgrimage will close with tea served by Mrs. Fred Waters and her committee on Mrs. W. L. Crout's spacious lawn.

The pilgrimage will include the gardens belonging to the following: Mrs. Harry Gould, 219 West Walker; Mrs. Frank Ragsdale, 250 West Rugby; Mrs. H. E. Perkins, 446 West Mercer; Mrs. J. Q. If Your Child Won't DRINK UP HIS MILK

There's no doubt children need plenty of the nourishment that milk supplies best... calcium for strong teeth, body-building proteins, protective vitamins.

Yet many children get tired of drinking so much milk; some cannot digest it readily. Here's an easy way to increase daily milk consumption. Make it into delicious eggless, non-cooked custards with "Junket" Rennet Powder (six flavors). Takes but a minute, and these colorful, tempting desserts appeal to the appetite of everyone. The rennet enzyme makes them easier to digest than plain milk. (At all grocers).

For economy, make rennet-custards also with "Junket" Rennet Tablets—unflavored, add sugar and flavor to taste. (At drugstores and grocers).

Miss Elizabeth Ball
Weds Mr. Hamilton.

Mrs. Thomas H. Ball announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ann Ball, to Charles Augustus Hamilton, the ceremony having been quietly solemnized on Monday, April 13. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. Ball and the late Mr. Ball. Mr. Hamilton is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hamilton. He holds a position as assistant manager of the Social Security Board. The couple is residing with the bride's mother, Mrs. Ball, at her home on Parkway drive.

MRS. MARBERT HAROLD COAN.

Miss Rowan Becomes Bride Of Sgt. M. H. Coan, U. S. A.

Miss Sarah Williford Rowan, of this city and Tifton, became the bride of Marbert Harold Coan, sergeant, U. S. Army, of Manchester, N. H., and East Point, on April 6 at the East Point Baptist church. The pastor, Dr. W. A. Duncan, officiated at noon in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride chose for her marriage a becoming ensemble of beige wool, the top coat being finished with a large collar of beige fur. Her hat and blouse were of parsley green and she wore a veil of antique tan. Her accessories were tan and she wore a bronze-throated orchid tied with bronze and green ribbons.

Mrs. Claudia Williford Rowan, mother of the bride, was gown in a model of defense blue and her flowers were gardenias. Mrs. J. M. Coan, mother of the groom, wore a navy ensemble with matching accessories. Her flowers were talisman roses.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Rowan entertained members of the wedding party at a breakfast at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel. For the past year the bride has resided in Atlanta, where she was connected with the Atlanta Gas Light Company. She is the older daughter of Dr. William A. Rowan, and her only sister is Miss Ruth Rowan, who attends Abraham Baldwin College. The bride was graduated from Tifton High school and received her diploma in speech. She completed her education at Bessie Tift College, where she majored in speech and voice.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Coan, of East Point. He was graduated from Russell High school in East Point, where he was an ROTC officer and a member of the band and the orchestra. Later he attended North Georgia College at Dahlonega. He is a member of the Sigma Theta fraternity and the East Point lodge of the B. P. O. of Elks. He was inducted into the United States Signal Corps in April, 1941, and trained at Fort Monmouth, N. J. He is now message center chief at Grenier Field in Manchester, New Hampshire.

The bridal couple left for a wedding trip and the groom returned to his post, where the bride will join him at an early date.

Daily Diet Is Cheapest Source Of Vitamins

By Ida Jean Kain.

At a meeting of nutritionists, the question came up as to the use of vitamin concentrates and all present emphatically declared that the best source of the vitamins is food. Then what do you suppose? Some one casually asked how many of the committee were taking any form of the concentrates—and eight out of the nine there held up their hands!

So, it seems to be a clear case of "do as I say, not as I do." There is good reason, however, for this double standard. Where the nutritionist takes a concentrate, it is in addition to a diet that is already adequate. The average person likes to think she can go merrily on her way eating as she pleases and that she can be as high in the vitamins and other protective elements as it is possible to make them.

You may need a concentrate—and you may not. Chances are you do not need extra vitamins in concentrated form if you have daily a liberal serving of lean meat or fish, an egg, and two glasses of milk, to furnish protein and minerals; and fresh fruits, vegetables, dairy products and whole grains for vitamins and minerals. The concentrates won't do you any harm, but if you have other necessary things to do for your money, it is not necessary to rush out and invest in them.

Because they furnish so many of the essential nutrients, groceries will always be your best and cheapest source of vitamins. But there are times when the concentrates are life savers. If enormous doses are required—as in the treatment of neuritis, anorexia, pellagra or rickets—they work miracles. There are also normal cases that benefit from extra amounts. The person subject to frequent colds can build up resistance to respiratory infection by stepping up the vitamins A and D by use of a haliver oil capsule.

Send large stamped return envelope to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., for the leaflet "Count Your Vitamins." This gives you a convenient list of the vitamin-rich foods, and the amounts needed daily.

The opening is being sponsored by members of the Girls' Circle for the Tallulah Falls School, and members of the circle will serve as models and hostesses. In the above group are Miss Betty Hurt, Mrs. Walden Woodward and Miss Mary Virginia McConnell.

Patriotism Puts a Stop To Abbott and Costello's Quarrel With Studio

By Louella O. Parsons.

Joan Crawford, looking like a million dollars, paid her first visit in a year to M-G-M today, partly on business and partly to say "Hello" to her old gang. The business angle was a huddle with Louis B. Mayer about her next picture, "Reunion," which starts in a few weeks. Authored by Bus-Fehele, it is the highly dramatic story of a French girl who finds her fiancé has gone over to the Nazi cause. Philip Dorn plays the RAF pilot to whom she turns for solace.

Abbott and Costello, who were reported battling with Universal over their film quota of four a year, have settled their tiff. They have agreed to make four a year since Cliff Work pointed out the government wanted as many comedies as possible as morale builders for the boys. "We will be darned glad to knock ourselves out for the boys who knock out the Japs," said Lou. Their next picture, "Whodunnit," a murder-chiller-thriller, will be filmed in New York, and the boys leave for the big town in two weeks to make scenes at Radio City.

Tyrone Power, Twentieth-Century-Fox's fair-haired boy, is back from visiting Annabella and ready to face the cameras in "Black Swan." He has applied for enlistment in the Navy but he doesn't know when the call will come. However, he will don his blue jacket when Uncle Sam says the word. He says he has seen Annabella's show three times in Chicago and on each occasion has been amazed at her improvement in "Blithe Spirit." She will remain for at least eight weeks until the play closes. I believe she will go on to Broadway, for she loves the theater and as far too good an actress to remain idle.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD—You could have knocked Jack Warner over with a feather when Jack Benny, who never quibbles about billing, stormed into his office and demanded a "must" on top billing in "George Washington Slept Here." "Why a must?" asked Boss Warner. "Because," said Benny, "if the billing comes out 'George Washington Slept Here' with Jack Benny, Fred Allen will say: 'I always knew he and Washington were about the same age.'"

SNAPSHOTS AT HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Carole Landis is back home, furious over the story of her reported marriage to Commander Gene Markey. She says she saw more of Greg Bautzer than she did of Gene; Eleanor Powell and Music Arranger Walter Ruick night clubbing. Apparently her romance with Merrill Pye is over; Ann Miller celebrated her 19th birthday this week; the Cagney boys, 'tis said, have assumed all financial responsibility for their United Artists Movies; Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul celebrate their first wedding anniversary Saturday. They will have a small dinner party. That's all today. See you tomorrow; but Jerry Cooper says: "Don't be a slacker—be a backer. Buy defense bonds."

"SAVE YOUR PENNIES TO SAVE AMERICA."

Don't give your pots and pans a daily beating and then expect good work. Scour them free of all food particles, inside and out. Dry them thoroughly. Store them neatly. Rough treatment is hard on pans and pocketbooks. Buy U. S. saving stamps with money saved by careful handling of kitchenware. Pledge your budget savings every month toward a savings bond.

The Place of Coffee in a Model Diet

By Dr. William Brady.

Chief fault novices find with the model health diet is that it does not include coffee. And what is breakfast without coffee?

To that objection I reply that the diet is offered as a basic, fundamental or model diet on which to build or pattern your own diet to suit your particular requirements. The diet as outlined doesn't include specific mention of the extra ration of vitamins which most people, whether following the diet or not, need. This extra daily ration of vitamins is something for you to decide on, according to your individual requirements.

Regarding coffee, I don't mind telling you, just between ourselves, that I wouldn't deny myself a man-size cup or 1-2 cups of good coffee for breakfast every morning just because some neurotic or fanatic imagines coffee is harmful. But I do not mention coffee in the model diet because in some instances it may be advisable to omit it. Remember we are speaking of adults, not children, and adults who are not under medical care. Adults who are or should be under medical care are foolish to take coffee or to avoid coffee unless they are so instructed by the physician.

So then, sanctioning coffee, here is the breakfast menu of the model health diet, more nearly as I like it myself:

	Calories.
Glass of orange juice	100
Two eggs (fried, boiled, poached, or as you prefer)	166
Fresh fruit in season	80
Glass of milk	160
Man-size cup of coffee with cream (1-2 ounce)	30
Saccharin for sweetening	000
Tablets supplying the day's ration of B complex and D	000

In reference to coffee in a health diet it may be well to emphasize two things, first, that the coffee must not be boiled, and second, that it must be taken as a beverage, a beneficial beverage, a good health beverage, a good nature beverage, and not as a good sluice to wash down unmasticated or incompletely masticated morsels of food.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chiologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Plan to put your best foot forward today, for spectacular success can come in various ways. This is a favorable day for consultations, financial interests, religious and educational matters, experiments, plans and sociability.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—After 8:45 p. m. and continuing throughout the entire day and afternoon, attend to your most important plans for the week. You can look for a few "breaks" or favorable developments. Take advantage of this auspicious day to advance your ambitions.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The predominating influences before 2:02 p. m. favor dealings with the public, social activities, contacts with partners, and work that requires much detail. The remainder of the day will prove better if sudden, unpremeditated departures from the conventional are omitted.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Plan to approach new ideas and new suggestions carefully until 1:07 p. m. Restrictions in your endeavors and a lack of cheerfulness around you may prove irksome.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Before 3:30 p. m. be aggressive in affairs that can be closed immediately for you can make progress. The remainder of the day you should avoid half-truths or misinformation.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 1:14 p. m. the influences favor general business activities. Between 1:14 p. m. and 10:07 p. m. discretion should be used around domestic affairs.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—Previous to 1:43 p. m. favors social associations and work catering to this side of life. Financial efforts should meet with favorable results. After 1:43 p. m. favors attention to routine matters.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The best aspects of the day operate previous to 12:44 p. m. making this a favorable time for work of a mental nature, travel and communications. The period past 12:44 p. m. suggests sticking to routine.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—Before 11:28 a. m. does not favor clear understandings with others. Speculations and speculative ideas may sound alluring, but they are without profit.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Previous to 8:20 p. m. you are apt to feel unusually ambitious and energetic, which will aid you to work that calls for immediate application. Between 2:20 p. m. and 4:11 p. m. social duties, domestic affairs and existing ties are apt to prove troublesome.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—It will not be easy to "stay put" today. You will be restless and want to do something about it, whether it is in a mental way, or in bodily activity. Be conservative and avoid vague plans.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The most favorable hours are previous to 6:35 p. m. The remainder of the evening favors following established methods, customs and designs, sticking to ordinary pursuits and avoiding radical and erratic changes.

Some Helps in Making Plans for a Stag Supper

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: My father celebrates his 50th birthday this month. I am planning a surprise supper for him and will invite five men who are very good friends. Will you suggest a menu and something for entertainment? The entertainment cannot be poker for the men are not that type. I had thought of having a type entertainment if it was nothing but a good joke. Shall I use place cards, and if so, what can I use that would be odd? What kind of napkins are used with a lace table cloth? A. W.

With such a limited number of guests to be invited I think informality will be best. I do not think place cards would be necessary, but in the event that you desire to use them I think that an unusual ashtray would be nice. Or, perhaps, a package of cigarettes or a cigar bearing a small card and their names would be different. Your guests may not have such a playful sense of humor, so, perhaps, a cigar or the cigarette would be the best bet. Damask napkins of the regular dinner size should be used with a lace cloth. As for entertainment, you might have a time clock and have each guest timed for his idea of a good program by letting him present it. For instance, have each guest describe just what is his idea of a good subject program. Or if the guests are all school friends, have each one relate some school incident. Have each man tell how he got his first job. Or his most unforgettable experience, or his most embarrassing moment. Each man could discuss current events to assume a more serious atmosphere or have your father conduct a quiz test on a variety of subjects. Perhaps, however, it would be a good idea to let the men talk among themselves on any subject which they may choose. When men get together they usually like to follow their own ideas.

As for the menu, something which you know your father enjoys would be the best bet. Men always like steak and potatoes. If the guests enjoy a drink, serve some before dinner and then have your meal consist of a cocktail such as tomato juice, then a soup, and then have your entree be something very special which your father enjoys. Vegetables, two would be sufficient, would be good with any meat you may select. Baked fish is nice; fried chicken, steak, chops, individual chicken pie, or roast beef. Men like more substantial food than women, and do not usually worry about their figures. Hot biscuits or rolls would be nice, and, of course, coffee. A salad and a dessert such as apple pie would complete the meal. If you know your father likes a dutch supper, why not have a variety of cheese, sausages, potato chips, stuffed eggs, pickles, and beer and colslaw.

Dr. and Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Vines Fined on Contempt Charges

Dr. Hiram W. Evans, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Mary S. Vines yesterday were held in contempt of court by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, but won their contention that they do not have to produce records of companies in which they are interested before the grand jury in the course of its investigation of alleged graft in state departments. The court upheld the plea that such records might tend to incriminate them.

Dr. Evans, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, scheduled to be tried May 4 for alleged conspiracy to defraud the state, was ordered to pay a fine of $200 within 20 days, or serve 20 days in jail. His wife was ordered to pay $150 within 10 days, or serve 15 days. Mrs. Vines, a partner in the Evans companies, was ordered to pay $50 within 10 days, or serve 10 days.

According to Judge Pomeroy's lengthy decision, the contempt lay not in the failure to produce the books of the five Evans construction and asphalt companies, but in the fact that Mrs. Evans, with the knowledge of her husband, removed them from the custody of Mrs. Vines while she was under subpoena to produce them, and in the suspicion that Mrs. Vines was in accord with the removal.

The first subpoena for the books was issued February 25 and Mrs. Vines made an immediate motion to quash it on the ground that it was vague and indefinite. Before this issue was decided, the solicitor general issued a subpoena for the books of each of the five companies. Judge Pomeroy ruled he would have quashed the first subpoena on the ground of vagueness, but would have required production of the books on the later subpoenas if only the plea of vagueness had been made.

Defense counsel made numerous objections to the later subpoenas but the one upheld by the judge was the constitutional provision that a person may not be required to furnish evidence against himself. Although he ruled they did not have to produce the books, he found them guilty of contempt.

Neither Special Prosecutor James A. Branch, nor counsel for Dr. Evans would indicate if any further proceedings would result from the decision.

CORKING ACCESSORY!—The war may turn Old Lady Fashion's head with a lot of new ideas in material, but pretty blond Elizabeth Hodges, of Fairburn, has the jump on a lot of people with this one. She made herself a cork purse out of the linings of soda water bottle caps. It took 600 of them to make this natty bag—along with a lot of broken needles and a couple of sore thumbs—and it is finished off with a zipper and a coat of shellac.

Store Displays To Urge Buying Of War Bonds

Merchants Here To Join Those in Chicago and Washington.

Atlanta retail merchant will join with merchants of Chicago and Washington April 27 in a week's window display with "Buy War Stamps and Bonds" as its theme. Other patriotic themes will be stressed in successive weeks.

The movement was inspired by the International Association of Display Men and given warm approval by the Washington authorities. It is expected most American cities will join the three leaders in such window shows.

The local display men's organization has formed a special committee for handling the campaign, urging displays by all retail stores, large and small.

R. C. Hawley, of Sears-Roebuck, is director of the campaign, with Frank Pallotta, of Fich's, co-director, and Calvin Pratt, of Lane Drug Stores, publicity director.

Chairmen assigned to various lines of trade are: Department stores, V. F. McCollum; specialty stores, E. M. Price; millinery, K. V. Burnham; optical and jewelry stores, James Rickerson; hat and shirt stores, A. N. Waters; music and radio stores, M. M. Hicks; drug stores, Calvin Pratt; hardware stores, W. H. Rogers; furniture stores, Foster Hamilton; public utilities, R. L. Sellers; men's wear, Gene Turner; chain stores, George Hart; decorating and signs, George Breare.

Persons in any way interested in display activities are invited to attend a meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce. It will be addressed by A. L. Zachry, president of the Retail Merchants Association.

Tech High Ready For Literary Rites

Tech high school will hold its annual literary exercises at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Municipal auditorium. Charles D. Woodward, president of the United States of America, will preside.

Declarations will be delivered by George Newton Wilson, Duncan M. Veal and S. K. Simpson. Oration will be delivered by William R. Thompson, James L. Cabe and William Warner Ellis.

Debate on the question of whether every able-bodied citizen should have a year of full-time military training before reaching the draft age, Lon S. Shealy and Harry W. Marshall will support the affirmative and George W. Moore and Charles E. Allen will take the negative side. The Tech High band will play.

Price-Cutting Milkman Will Sell Wholesale

Martin Pledges To Remain 'True Blue' To Customers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 16.—(AP) H. E. Martin, Savannah's price-cutting milkman, said today he would remain "true blue" to his customers by abandoning his retail trade, taking out a producer's license and selling milk on a cash-and-carry basis at his barn door.

Earlier in the day the State Milk Control Board revoked Martin's producer-distributor license and gave him 10 days in which to turn his retail business into a wholesale trade.

"That suits me," Martin said. "My retail deliveries in the city don't amount to but 20 per cent of my sales and I've been intending to quit them anyhow. I'll just sell from four quarts up cash-and-carry at the barn and become a wholesaler."

Stating emphatically that he would never sell his milk to a distributor, "even if they had a dollar a gallon for it," Martin said he would stay "true blue to my customers."

He said some of his customers had come from points in South Carolina and many are from south Georgia communities. Commenting on the 36-cents-a-gallon minimum price the board can restrict him to as a wholesaler, Martin said, "If a man is going to manipulate his business, I want him to manipulate it from end to end. I want him to have the keys, pay the help, pay me a salary, do five men's work like I do."

Martin said he had called State Milk Control Board Director Charles G. Duncan's attention time and again "to repeated violations of the milk law and nothing was done about it. And I don't intend to abide by the regulations," he said, "until the law is equally enforced with justice to all."

U. S. Jobs Given 'For the Duration'

O. E. Myers, fifth district manager, Civil Service Commission, said in an interview yesterday that the United States Civil Service Commission to a greater extent than ever before "is handling people—not papers" in an effort to recruit workers for vital war jobs.

"The Civil Service Commission," he said, "is no longer attempting to confer upon federal employees what is known as 'civil service status.' All appointments to federal jobs are now for the duration of the war."

"We are making no attempt to offer security in times when jobs are available to almost everyone, and when the services of all Americans are needed to win the war."

Weather Bureau Has Piece of Luck

The United States Weather Bureau at Candler Field rejoiced yesterday that it had conserved for national defense, and at the same time had set some sort of a record.

Periodically, the weather office at the airport turns loose a balloon in which there is encased an intricate radio transmitter weather recording device. These balloons rise to about 12 miles in the air and burst, whereupon the transmitter is released to drop to earth in a parachute. Often the parachute takes the transmitter many hundreds of miles.

Yesterday a transmitter came back to earth only three miles from the starting point and can be used again, said the weather men. This is the first time in the history of that office, it was reported, that the parachute has returned that close to the field.

Fresh Asparagus Is Here

Fresh asparagus is here again, a little boiling water. Boil steadily for about 15 minutes, then cover pan to steam the tender heads. About 20 minutes is enough time for cooking asparagus; when the lower stalk is tender enough to be pierced with a sharp, pointed knife the vegetable is done. Above all, do not overcook asparagus. Remove at once from fire, drain and serve. Drawn butter (melted butter), lemon butter, Hollandaise or mock Hollandaise are usually served over it. Or asparagus may be chilled and served with French dressing, mayonnaise or Russian dressing. A sprinkling of hard-boiled egg, a dash of nutmeg and a cooked salad dressing give interesting and different flavor to cold or hot asparagus.

Asparagus and scrambled eggs make one of my favorite combinations. Properly made it is wonderful; overcooked, well, already I've hinted that is an abomination! Try this for Sunday supper or for luncheon:

Scrambled Eggs and Asparagus
Wash 2 pounds of asparagus and cut off only the tough part of the stalk, and wash asparagus carefully in cold water. Swish the heads about, carefully, or hold under running water to remove sand. Tie in small bunches with a little string and stand upright in a heavy frying pan, put in the asparagus, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and simmer for 5 minutes—really all that is necessary is to keep them hot in the butter. In another pan, melt 3 tablespoons butter and when it is bubbling pour in 8 eggs beaten until frothy with 1-2 cup milk and salt and pepper to season. Stir the eggs constantly over a slow fire and, when the mixture is about the consistency of thin cream, carefully add the asparagus and turn the whole concoction carefully with a spoon for about a minute longer or until thick and creamy—be careful not to mash or break up the asparagus tips. Remove at once from the fire and turn out on a hot platter. Garnish the edge of the platter with little triangles of lightly buttered toast.

Creamed Chicken and Asparagus: Put creamed chicken in individual ramekins or baking dishes and sprinkle buttered breadcrumbs over the top. Place 4 stalks of cooked asparagus dipped in melted butter on top and bake for 8 minutes in a hot oven.

Hot cheese biscuits go well with an asparagus salad garnished with hard-boiled eggs. To make these, add 1-2 cup of grated cheese to a recipe of baking powder biscuits.

IDEAS FROM A COOK'S NOTEBOOK

When white potatoes are peeled, minced onion and about 1-3 cup fine dry bread crumbs. Mix well, spread in a thick layer over one of the pieces of spareribs. Cover with the other piece of meat, skewer or sew the edges together, sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour and put in a baking pan. Roast in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for about 1 1/2 hours, or until the spareribs are crisp and brown.

Roast Spareribs With Cornmeal and Apple Stuffing.

Buy five pounds pork spareribs for six people and have the bones cracked to facilitate serving and eating. Have the spareribs cut in two pieces so that you can put one on the other with the stuffing between. Boil 1 1/2 cups water, add 1-2 teaspoon salt and sprinkle in 1-3 cup yellow cornmeal, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1-2 teaspoon poultry seasoning and cook for 10 to 15 minutes, remove from the fire and cool until almost cold. Then add 3 tart apples, peeled and hulled.

Food experts say rice is one food that has almost never been the cause of allergy. Brown rice supplies about eight times as much thiamin, iron and riboflavin as the highly polished white variety, unless the white rice is enriched with vitamin B.

Small hot rolls served with asparagus au gratin make a two-course that sings of spring.

Strawberry Shortcake

(Biscuit Base.)
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup shortening
3-4 cup milk
2 quarts strawberries, washed and hulled

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and stir again. Cut in shortening, add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1-4 inch thick and cut with 3-inch biscuit cutter. Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet; brush with melted butter. Place remaining circles on top of these and butter tops well. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes. Cut strawberries in small pieces and sweeten slightly with sugar or honey. Reserve a few whole berries for garnish. Separate halves of hot biscuits, spread bottom with softened butter and some of the sweetened strawberries. Place tops on and spread with soft butter and strawberries. Garnish with whipped cream and whole strawberries. Serves 8.

Dough may be rolled 1-2 inch thick, cut and baked, then shortcakes split after baking.

Fresh asparagus is in and Mrs. Tyler Young, a bride, finds large bundles of these green spears on her grocer's shelves. Directions for cooking green asparagus are given in other columns on this page.

Right: Veal mold with spiced peaches is an appealing warm weather dish.

Avocados make a good sandwich filling, and they're a fruit that supplies a generous quantity of vitamins and minerals. Just arrange thin slices of avocado between slices of buttered bread. Add a thin slice of onion, if liked. Or spread one slice of buttered bread with mustard or horseradish.

For Springtime Luncheon

The warm days of spring and summer should see a steady procession of jellied dishes appearing on your table. Jellied foods are cooling and refreshing, and fine for our wartime schedules, they can be put together at odd moments, tucked into the refrigerator and served at a moment's notice.

The pretty mold pictured above may be the basis of a luncheon. Precede it with a hot soup, serve tiny hot rolls or biscuits with it and follow with a fresh fruit dessert, strawberry shortcake for example, and see what a meal for no trouble at all! Make the jellied mold this way:

Veal Mold With Spiced Peaches

2 cans condensed chicken soup
2 eggs, separated
1 1-2 tablespoons gelatin, softened in 1-4 cup cold water
1 1-2 cups cooked veal, diced
1-2 cup whipping cream or sour cream

Strain soup and heat in double boiler. Add diced meat to the rice, chicken and celery strained from the soup. Beat egg yolks, add the hot soup to them and cook until slightly thickened in the double boiler. Pour hot mixture over softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool until mixture begins to thicken, then add the meat and chicken-rice mixture. Fold in beaten egg whites and whipped cream or sour cream. Pour into a ring mold and chill until firm. Turn out of large plate and surround with spiced or pickled peaches served on lettuce or watercress. Fill center with watercress. Serves 6.

Prize Recipes

Brown Sugar Fudge Squares

Submitted by Mrs. J. K. Smith, 1418 C. & S. Building, Atlanta, Ga.

1 lb. brown sugar
3-4 lb. butter
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 teaspoon salt
3 1-4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1-2 cups chopped nuts

Melt sugar and butter together thoroughly. Add eggs, vanilla, salt. Add flour and baking powder sifted together and mix together well. Add nuts. Spread out thinly in greased and floured biscuit pan and bake very slowly (300 degrees) for approximately one hour. Cook until golden brown only.

Spaghetti and Meat Balls

Submitted by Mrs. J. D. Cooper, Route 3, care C. E. Cooper, Fitzgerald, Ga.

Good, crunchy potato chips appear as a garnish on many luncheon plates, a bowlful is provided for munching at bridge parties and buffet suppers. Since most housewives do not make potato chips at home, I went around, a few days ago, to a modern plant to see how they do it. All processes are done by machines; potatoes are peeled, sliced, washed (and washed again), drained, cooked, and packaged without being touched by human hands. The thinly sliced potatoes are washed so thoroughly to remove as much of the starch as possible, then are cooked in automatically regulated vegetable oil. Miss Mary Fowler, who works in this new and modern food plant, is seen scooping up golden potato chips and putting them into the waxed bags which you buy.

PREFERRED BY THE FINEST COOKS

There will be plenty of home-baked cakes and cookies on hand when son comes home on leave, we'll bet you! And may we suggest that you take the advice of the South's finest cook, Mrs. S. R. Dull, and use White Lily for your baking? She says that since FLOUR IS THE MOST IMPORTANT INGREDIENT in any baking, she prefers White Lily, a flour enriched with vitamin B1 and body-building food minerals. White Lily has such a smooth velvety texture that it practically insures baking success.

"I use and endorse WHITE LILY FLOUR exclusively"

A Festive, Though Not Expensive Dinner for Two

This menu is planned for those days when you want an inexpensive but especially attractive dinner. Maybe it's an anniversary or some special occasion, yet your food budget is about exhausted! Remember that plenty of good food and many memorable meals have been produced without the aid of high priced luxuries.

From the French, who for generations have been noted for their skill in cooking and their economy with foods, comes this recipe for a delicious dish made from the breast of veal—one of the least expensive cuts of meat. Add noodle, timbales, fresh green peas cooked with mint, little hot rolls which you can always buy at the bakery and, for dessert, fresh rhubarb berry served with a hard sauce or with the pineapple ginger sauce which just adds the right flavor, making a perfect finish for the meal.

THE MENU

Breast of Veal a la Poulette
Noodle Timbales
Minted Green Peas
Hot Rolls
Rhubarb Betty
Pineapple Ginger Sauce
Coffee

Veal a la Poulette: Buy 1 pound lean breast of veal without bones, or 1 pound lean shoulder of veal. Cut the meat into small cubes and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons veal drippings, butter or margarine in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons flour and mix well. Then add 1 1/2 cups cold water, stirring it in and cooking the mixture until it boils. Add the meat, about 1-2 teaspoon more of salt and a tiny pinch of nutmeg. Cover the pan and boil slowly for 1 to 1 1/4 hours. The juice from the meat will thin the sauce as it cooks, but stir it once in a while to prevent any possibility of scorching and be sure that it cooks slowly. The cheaper cuts of meat all need long cooking to make them tender, and the flavor of this dish in particular depends on the slow cooking. At the end of 45 minutes, add 6 very small white onions, peeled but left whole, or if you do not want onions, add 6 small whole mushrooms and 1 teaspoon chopped chives. When the meat and onions are tender, skim them out of the gravy and arrange on a hot platter around the timbales. Add 1 teaspoon undiluted evaporated milk to the gravy, let it boil up once and pour around the meat. Sprinkle with minced parsley and with pakrika before serving.

Noodle Timbales: Break fine noodles into small pieces to make 3-4 cupful. Cook in boiling, salted water until tender, then drain thoroughly. Beat 1 egg and mix with 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-3 cup milk, a little pepper. Stir this into the hot noodles and pack the mixture into 2 or 3 buttered timbale molds or custard cups. Bake these in a slow oven for about 10 minutes, then turn out on a hot platter.

Minted Peas: Shell 1 pound fresh peas, cook in 1-2 cup boiling salted water with a sprig of fresh mint. Cook about 20 minutes or until the peas are just tender. Season with butter, salt and pepper when done. Frozen peas may be used, following the directions on the package and adding the mint. Or heat a small can of peas in the liquor in the can and add the mint as above.

Rhubarb Betty: Wash 3 stalks of fresh rhubarb and cut in small slices without peeling. There should be 2 cupful of the sliced rhubarb. Mix it with 1-2 cup sugar, or 1-2 cup honey or white syrup. Mix 1 cup coarse, stale breadcrumbs with 1-4 cup melted butter or margarine. Put half the crumbs in a small baking dish, add the rhubarb and cover with the rest of the crumbs. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar with 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle on top. Pour 2 tablespoons water over all, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes, uncover and increase the heat in the oven for 5 or 8 minutes longer or until the pudding is slightly crisp on top. Serve warm.

Pineapple-Ginger Sauce: Mix 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cornstarch and a pinch of salt in a small saucepan. Add 1-2 cup canned, crushed pineapple and stir until boiling. Remove from the fire, add 1 teaspoon chopped candied ginger, 1 tablespoon butter and about 1 teaspoon lemon juice, or enough to make it slightly tart. Serve warm.

Instead of the candied ginger, you might substitute powdered ginger—1-2 teaspoonful mixed with the brown sugar and cornstarch. The sauce will almost be as good with this, but not quite as zippy.

Suggestions: Cook the pudding about 45 minutes before dinner is to be served and use the same oven heat for the noodle timbales and to heat the rolls. The pudding will keep warm.

Arthur Hobbs Dies at Home In California

Was for Many Years a Resident of Atlanta.

Arthur Hendricks Hobbs, for many years a resident of Atlanta, and widely known in the telephone business, died yesterday at his residence in Sacramento, Cal.

Hobbs, former Sacramento branch manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, was a brother of Mrs. Ed Gay and Mrs. Winfield Jones, of Atlanta.

His health forced the retirement of Hobbs from active business nearly two years ago, relatives here said yesterday.

AROUND Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

Another trial for Ben Shafer, Campbellton road storekeeper who killed Fulton County Patrolman Aubrey Frazier in 1939, was granted yesterday by the Georgia supreme court.

Bank clearings yesterday totaled $21,000,000 as compared with $17,500,000 for the corresponding day last year, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported.

Virgil G. Crowder, of 657 Bankhead highway, and Ed Cheatham, of a MacMillan street address, yesterday were acquitted of the illegal detention of Tom Crymes during a strike at the Atlantic Steel plant.

They were tried before Judge John S. McClelland, of Fulton criminal court. Crymes charged that the two, who were on strike, illegally detained him because he had not gone on strike.

Owing to different dates of Easter, department store sales in the Atlanta Federal Reserve District declined 13 per cent last week, the Federal Reserve Board announced. The drop was due, said the board, to the fact the week ended April 11 occurred after Easter this year, but preceded it last year. Other reserve districts throughout the country showed corresponding declines.

Candidates for mayor will speak at 8 o'clock tonight at the Masonic hall, Hemphill avenue and Tenth street, to a meeting of the North Atlanta Civic League, President V. E. Eccles announced yesterday.

Members of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in commerce, will meet for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Duchess tearoom. Elbert Clemmons will be speaker.

Atlanta Lions' Club luncheon at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel will have as principal speaker Bill Jester, a member of the club. His subject will be "Nuts to You." He deals in peanuts. Earle Holden will respond.

Fraternal Order of Eagles, Atlanta Aerie No. 714, will be host tomorrow and Sunday to Eagles from all over the south. A class of 40 or more will be initiated at the order's home, 33½ Auburn avenue. Visitors are expected from Pratt City, Ala.; Nashville, Knoxville, Macon, Augusta, Savannah and Columbia, S. C.

Citizens' Advisory Board of the Salvation Army will meet at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the board, will preside.

Annual spring concert of Maddox Junior High school will be given at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium. On the program are the A Capella choir of Commercial High school, directed by Haskell Boyter, and Kathryn Dozier, violinist, of Girls' High school.

Atlanta Chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous will meet at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Robert Fulton hotel.

Six Atlanta youngsters were deprived of their favorite mode of transportation yesterday when a thief stole their bicycles, police reported. One of the bicycles, however, was found on the street by police and returned to its owner.

Organization of a campaign to build an electrically operated "home" for curing sweet potatoes is scheduled at 8 o'clock tonight at Southwest DeKalb High school. Professor R. N. Jones and others will discuss the value of sweet potatoes in this part of the "Food for Victory" campaign.

At the City Hall

Mayor Lyle is going swank, he announced yesterday. He ordered drapes for the mayor's suite at the city hall, saying "we don't need anything fancy, but a little color will add to its attractiveness, so we are going to buy some."

Newsmen at the city hall yesterday were shut out of the pressroom, while L. Glenn Dewberry, superintendent of the city hall, had floors sanded and otherwise gave the much used rendezvous of local politicians a spring cleaning.

Councilman John White, candidate for mayor in the May 27 election, yesterday announced he is maintaining headquarters for his drive for votes at his business office, 711-12 Healey building.

City council Monday will be asked to approve a public works committee recommendation that a special committee of six city and Fulton and DeKalb county officials and traction engineers be created to confer with state, federal and Bell bomber plant officials to establish adequate transportation facilities to the site of the plant. The name of Lieutenant Marvin Thomas, of the city traffic engineering division, was added to five named in the resolution, offered by Councilman John A. White, chairman of the public works group.

Church News

Sacred Heart Altar Society will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the assembly room. Father Collins will show pictures of the Eucharistic Congress.

Circle No. 2 of the W. M. S. of Northside Baptist church will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. E. Herndon, of 3 White street, N. W.

St. Cecilia's chapter of All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary meets at 11 o'clock this morning with Mrs. Hanson McNamara, of 758 Cumberland road. Mrs. Henry Powell will be cohostess.

Trade at the BIG STORE

PRIVATE BUCK By Clyde Lewis

"I've been checking on that suspect, Captain. Frankly, Sir, I don't think she's a spy!"

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Soldiers in the eight southeastern states soon will be wearing the regulation issue of summer clothing, according to Major Preston M. Motes, clothing and equipment officer on the staff of Colonel James R. Alfante, Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster.

When the changeover comes, it will be for the O. D. woolen overcoat, shirt, trousers, socks and long-handled underwear.

It may be a break for the post quartermasters, because they have been having a whale of a time all winter getting some of the boys in the south to wear those ankle-length undergarments.

Here is the summer issue for each best dressed soldier: Two cotton khaki shirts, two pairs of cotton khaki trousers, one garrison cap, seven pairs of cotton socks, four cotton undershirts, four pairs of cotton shorts and two pairs of shoes.

Each unit will store the winter clothing of its men, while the winter supply of togs in quartermaster depots will be stored in those mothballs until next fall.

Christian Union Meeting To Open

The Georgia Christian Endeavor Union is going to get a word from India at its rally opening here today.

The Rev. Vere W. Abbey, general secretary of the Christian Endeavor Union of India, Burma and Ceylon, is to address the rally, President Harlow Autry, of the Georgia Union, announced.

The meeting here was called in lieu of the state convention scheduled at Glennville April 25. The Glennville session was called off because of war-burdened housing conditions.

Autry said representatives from Tifton, Savannah, Rome, Augusta, Glennville and Columbus will participate in a business session Saturday afternoon.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

I want to say there is nothing wrong with the youth of America. It's us old boys who have fallen down.

We've been talking mighty biggity and spent the last ten years snowballing a forest fire.

That's why we are slower getting started than molasses on an arctic trip.

But they tell me the big production line is rolling and from now on we are as solid as wet sand.

It was the same way in 1917, which I remember as clear as if it was yesterday. Which it could have been.

Gallup Poll Finds:

U. S. Wants Greater War Effort

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
PRINCETON, N. J., April 16.—The United Automobile Workers

Union, CIO, began a newspaper advertising campaign this week to tell the public its point of view in the matter of war sacrifices.

That such a campaign comes at a time when it is needed is amply evidenced by a study of the views of John Q. Public just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Only slightly more than one-third of the American public is convinced that labor unions are going all-out in the war effort. Many complain that labor is more concerned about preserving its rights than it is about winning the war.

The views of the people were gathered in response to the following questions, with results as shown:

"Do you think business and industry are going all-out to win the war?"	Yes 58%

Registration Cards Mailed By Richardson

Prompt Return by Voters Is Urged by City Clerk.

New interest was injected yesterday into the forthcoming May 27 election to select a successor to Mayor LeCraw.

Joe L. Richardson, city clerk and registrar, mailed 7,000 registration cards, representing the first consignment, to voters asking them to return the cards verifying their registrations within five days as required by law. He asked prompt co-operation of registrants in order that registration lists may be prepared early and to avoid mistakes which might occur if voters hold the cards so long that the lists must be prepared under pressure.

Former Mayor William B. Hartfield made his first visit to the city hall since he surrendered the mayor's chair to LeCraw January 6, 1941. He went to the municipal building to qualify formally to succeed LeCraw. At the mayor's office, he filed his official notification with Mayor Lyle.

Hartfield's qualification brings the number of qualified candidates to eight, with Lyle's name to be added later, Lyle told Hartfield.

Others already qualified are four members of council—Aldermen Frank H. Reynolds and G. Dan Bridges and Councilmen John A. White and Howard Haire—and three outside of council—James R. Bachman, Dewey L. Johnson and Jimmy Vickers.

Howell School F. D. R. Names Is To Present Board To Help Patriotic Play

More Than 460 Students Are To Dramatize History.

Every student at Evan P. Howell school will participate in a "Defense for America" pageant at the school, Howell Mill road, this afternoon.

The more than 460 students will dramatize Dixie history from the formation of the Confederate States of America through the present day when defense stamp and bond sales highlight school activities.

The program has provided children with a current events education in preparing flags of the Allied Nations and learning patriotic songs. Total defense stamp sales were reported yesterday to have exceeded the $1,000 mark.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. A. D. Stephens, a sister, Mrs. Walter Rutherford, and a brother, C. C. Stephens, all of Summerville, and C. A. Stephens, a brother who lives here.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the New Hope church, near Summerville.

Stimson, Knox, McNutt and Biddle Among Landis' Aides.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) President Roosevelt established a board today to advise and assist James M. Landis in the direction of civilian defense activities.

Landis will serve as chairman of the board. To the board the President named Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Attorney General Biddle, Director Paul V. McNutt, of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare; Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, of Boston; Earl D. Mallory, of Chicago, executive director of the American Municipal Association; Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, and Governor Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, now serving as a lieutenant commander in the Navy.

The step was revealed in a White House statement which said the board was intended to integrate OGD activities more closely with those of other war agencies and to gear its program to the war effort.

Landis, a presidential executive order said, would keep in touch with state and local problems arising from the industrial and military measures incident to the war, and secure the co-operation of federal agencies in dealing with such problems.

Landis, further, is to help the states and municipalities form their own local civilian defense councils.

Joseph Haire, 48, Enlists in Army

Joseph C. Haire, 48-year-old World War I veteran from Macon, is eager to get back in action with General MacArthur, "his old boss," and has enlisted as a private, being stationed at Sheppard Field, Texas.

Haire served as a sergeant major on General MacArthur's staff during the last war, and received the Order of the Purple Heart when he was wounded and gassed. A former publisher, he took part in 11 engagements with the Rainbow division.

He enlisted on St. Patrick's Day in the 404th Technical School Squadron with three other veterans of the last war, including Charles W. Golde, father of Movie Starlet Sheila Ryan. They enlisted in Los Angeles.

No Additional Bell Teachers Needed Now

Sufficient Instructors on Hand for 60 or 90 Days.

No additional instructors for the training program of the Bell bomber plant will be needed for at least 60 or 90 days because of the lack of adequate equipment, local school officials announced yesterday.

Although priority has been granted on $50,000 worth of training equipment and classes will get under way just as soon as this machinery is set up, 31 trained teachers who will return from Buffalo, N. Y., early next week will be sufficient to handle the first classes, Jere Wells, Fulton county school superintendent, said after conferring with M. D. Mobley, state vocational director, and Dr. H. Reid Hunter and T. W. Clift, of the Atlanta school department.

He emphasized that no additional men will be sent to Buffalo and that those who expected to qualify as instructors immediately will have to wait until they are needed. It has been definitely decided that Atlanta's training center will be at the fair grounds, while Fulton county will conduct its classes at 165 Central avenue.

Condition Pardon Ruled on by Court

A conditional pardon may be revoked at any time when the conditions are violated, regardless of when the prisoner's sentence would have expired, the Georgia supreme court ruled yesterday.

The case involved a pardon granted by former Governor Rivers to Ralph Harrell, convicted in Fulton county of operating a lottery.

The clemency was conditioned on Harrell's paying a $150 fine and obeying the law. He later was rearrested on another lottery charge and the solicitor general successfully sought the voiding of his pardon.

The supreme court said the conditions of a pardon remained in effect for the lifetime, rather than just for the rest of the time that the convict's sentence would run after his release from prison.

AVG's Leader Nominated for U.S. Promotion

Chennault's Volunteers May Be Transferred to Army Air Forces.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP) Colonel Claire L. Chennault, commander of the spectacular American Volunteer Group of fliers fighting the Japanese advance in Burma, was called to active duty in the United States Army today and nominated to be a brigadier general.

President Roosevelt sent his name to the senate in a list of 28 other Army officers to be advanced temporarily to major general or brigadier general. Chennault has been on the Air Force retired list, with the permanent rank of captain.

Chennault's volunteer force was not affected by the commander's change in status, officials said. Military quarters reported, however, that transfer of the volunteer group to the Army Air Force had been under consideration ever since the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

Chennault's home is Waterproof, Louisiana.

Those nominated to be major generals included Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service. He is 48 and his home is Angola, Ind.

Others promoted included Brigadier General Mark W. Clark, Indianapolis, Ind., 45-year-old chief of staff of the Army ground forces, and three brigadier generals who recently were put in command of newly organized infantry divisions.

The division commanders were Brigadier General Emil F. Reinhardt, Detroit, Mich., commander of the 67th Infantry Division; Ira T. Wyche, a native of Ocala, Fla., 70th Infantry Division, and Gustav H. Franke, a native of Manning, Iowa, commander of the 81st Infantry Division.

Aside from Colonel Chennault, those nominated to be brigadier generals included:

Colonel Harold L. George, a native of Somerville, Mass., new commander of the Air Corps Ferrying Command; Colonel Frank O'D. Hunter, Savannah, Ga., a noted pursuit pilot in the first World War; Colonel Clayton L. Bissell, Kane, Pa., an ace of the first World War; Colonel William C. Lee, Dunn, N. C., commander of the Army parachute force.

INJURED IN FALL.
VIDALIA, Ga., April 16.—Mrs. Jack Bell fell at her home in Alamo Tuesday and suffered a broken hip. Mrs. Bell, mother of former Policeman Charlie Bell, of Vidalia, is 70 years old. She was carried to a Swainsboro hospital.
